PHYSICIANS TESTIFY FOR PANTAGES

Murder Clews Lead Sheriff To Central California

VISALIA TO BE VISITED BY OFFICER

Deputy District Attorney Accompanies Jernigan—May Identify Man's Hat

TEETH ARE EXAMINED

Photograph of Dead Man's Spine Taken by Officials on Trip to North

ON THE strength of the theory that the "chicken cook" murder victim, whose heartless body was found near Huntington Beach, two weeks ago, may have been a man known to be missing from Dinuba, Calif., Lew Blodget, deputy district attorney, and Sheriff Sam Jernigan left here this morning for Dinuba to make inquiries.

The theory that the murder victim may have been a resident of Dinuba is further strengthened by the fact that sheriff's officers have interviewed a man in Long Beach, who stated that the description of the body, including the crooked spine, resembled a man who is missing and who lived in the little town near Visalia. Herman Zabel, finger print specialist, refused to disclose the name of the Long Beach man, on the grounds that the man did not want to be drawn into the case.

This clew looks better than any of the score the officers have run down during the past 10 days, Zabel said.

Local dentists who yesterday inspected the set of false teeth found in the mouth of the murdered man, declared that the teeth were approximately five years old. The old green hat also shows the signs of age and wear, and may be five years old. Putting two and two together, with the fact that it is known that the hat was sold in Dinuba, it is possible that the teeth also were sold there.

Dentists claim that the dentist who made the false teeth will recognize them, and if a dentist in Dinuba is found who made the teeth, he surely will remember who bought them, it is believed.

The teeth clew is another angle of the case that local officers are heavily banking on to identify the man.

Jernigan and Blodget are not expected to return here before Sunday night. It will take them all day tomorrow to make the investigations they are to make, Zabel said.

A photograph of the man's spine also was taken to Dinuba by the officers who will call on physicians there in an effort to identify the man.

Japan Seeking Big Reduction In Navy Power

Accepts Invitation to Conference and Opposes Mere Reduction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — (UP)—Japan's acceptance of the invitation to a January naval conference in London, made public by the state department today, contained a brief, pointed plea for real naval reduction and not mere limitation. Japanese emphasis upon this point recalled President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald's failure to agree upon reduction in the cruiser category of warships which is the most important of all classes to be discussed in London.

As the Anglo-American agreement now stands, Great Britain will maintain 340,000 tons of cruisers and the United States will maintain 315,000 tons. The latter figure is larger by 15,000 tons than the present authorized and appropriated American building program. The United Press learns on good authority, however, these figures probably will be reduced at London sufficiently to apply actual reduction to both American and British programs.

There were no reservations or conditions to Japanese participation in the conference although Japan expressed eagerness to consult with Great Britain prior to the conference regarding essential points upon which agreement will be sought.

In these conversations Japan is expected to request an increase in her auxiliary ship tonnage ratio from 3 to 5 to 7 to 10 as compared with the British and American navies. The communication did not mention the British feeler regarding possible abolition of submarines which is certain to be opposed by Japan.

The character of the Japanese note coincided with expectations that Tokio would unequivocally join in any effort toward naval reduction regardless whether under league of nations or other auspices.

All five powers invited to the naval conference have now accepted. The conference will set the third week in January.

The Japanese note said in part: "The Japanese government are further gratified to know of the willingness of the British government to continue informal conversation with me, as hitherto, on many points which may require elucidation. They note that similar discussions conducted in Lon-

NINTH VICTIM OF HOTEL FIRE DIES

SEATTLE, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The death toll of the Portland hotel fire reached nine today.

Twenty-four hours after the old biulding, rooming house for laborers, was destroyed, John Miller, 59, a railroad worker, died of his injuries.

Up and down the "skid roads," that section of Seattle where loggers gather when they come out of the woods, the word went today that the fire was started by a man responsible for several lesser blazes in the district recently.

Kerosene had been poured on the stairways of the hotel, hopelessly trapping the laborers in the old, brick structure.

MATRON CONVICTED OF KILLING 'WITCH'

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Pearl Burgess, middle aged matron, was convicted today of murdering Mrs. Etta Fairchild, 76, whom she accused of holding the Burgess family under a "spell" and of casting an "evil eye" on Eugenie, the 17-year-old daughter. There was no recommendation of sentence.

Eugene Burgess, husband and father, jointly charged with the murder, committed suicide by hanging himself with a pair of pajamas while in jail awaiting trial.

Testimony at the trial revealed Mrs. Burgess had lived in terror of Mrs. Fairchild for 15 years. She claimed the aged woman was a "witch" and blamed her for chronic illnesses of Eugenie.

350 GUESTS OF BANK OF ITALY ATTEND DINNER

C. C. Chapman of Fullerton Pays Tribute to Founder of Institution

THE VISION of A. P. Giannini, the executive genius of J. A. Bacigalupi, and the policy of square dealing with stockholders and full and courteous service to patrons are the factors that have developed the Bank of Italy in 25 years from a small financial institution in the Italian quarters of San Francisco to one of the strongest financial organizations in the United States, with resources approximating $900,000,000.

This was the forceful statement of C. C. Chapman, of Fullerton, former minister and the "father" of valencia orange growing in Orange county, at the complimentary dinner given at St. Ann's Inn, last night, by the Bank of Italy, to executive and other employes of the six branches in Orange county, and a few of the large stockholders, in celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Bank of Italy.

More than 350 men and women of Orange county were present to hear the millionaire of Fullerton pay tribute to the bank and to the founders, and to enjoy other features of the program arranged under direction of C. L. Cotant, vice president and manager of the Santa Ana branch.

Declaration by Chapman of facts that were known to be true were greeted enthusiastically by the large assemblage.

Pointing to the policy of fair treatment to stockholders established with the founding of the financial institution, Chapman recounted that an investment of $16,000 in 100 shares of stock of the bank in 1920 would at today's stock exchange quotations for Transamerica shares have returned the investor $755,885, if he had taken advantage of the rights to purchase stock as they were issued in the progress of the numerous stock dividends declared. Cash dividends are included in the total.

Great Growth

Incidentally, the speaker declared that the next five years will wit-

'PHANTOM GUNMAN' FIGHTS EXTRADITION

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Morris Miller never will return to California voluntarily and will fight any attempt to extradite him there, friends of the "phantom gunman" declared here today.

Their statements supposedly came after communication with William J. Quinn, Miller's attorney, who they declared is with Miller in New York. They declared Miller has established an alibi through New York hotel registrations that definitely clears him of suspicion in the recent Hollywood murder of David Antink.

Miller was said to have claimed he never saw Antink before the drug cashier identified him as the man who robbed the Sun Drug company of San Francisco several years ago.

Big Dividends Are Paid Out By Booze King

Government Makes Startling Discovery in Books of Huge Corporation

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Further knowledge of the ingenious operations of a gigantic bootlegging syndicate which was smashed by the government in one tremendous sweep, was gained today from the voluminous documents seized during the synchronized raids on the organization's numerous branches.

Authorities learned that the syndicate was in effect a corporation which was to the rum-running industry what General Motors or United States Steel is to legitimate business. Its board of directors met in weekly sessions around a quartered-oak table at a midtown office here, tallied the profits and declared dividends in a manner not unlike the financiers of Wall street.

A profit of $2,000,000 for a six months' period was shown by the rum corporation's books, federal authorities said. The directors split the earnings, some drawing seven per cent and others as much as 23 per cent, in ratio to investments.

Of unsual interest to the government were notations in two of the seized books indicating that the large sums, often running into five figures, were paid as protection to local officials in New Jersey.

Prohibition Administrator William J. Calhoun of New Jersey was reluctant to speak of the "protection list" until a more thorough investigation had been completed. Some of the items were entered opposite names of individuals; others were charged to official titles.

Search was continued on land and sea for the more notable leaders of the syndicate, whose operations extended from the French possessions of St. Pierre and Miquelon in the north to the Bermudas.

Of six reputed leaders still fugitives, three were believed today to be in Montreal, according to Calhoun. They are Al and William Lillien, of Newark, N. J., and James Murphy, all said to be members of the board of directors.

MRS. PANTAGES IN SERIOUS CONDITION

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Lois Pantages, who recently was convicted of manslaughter as a result of the automobile collision death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener, was reported seriously ill with pneumonia today.

Her physician, Dr. E. C. Fishbaught, said he had ordered two more nurses to the bedside. He said the nervous strain of her trial contributed to her critical condition.

Mrs. Pantages is scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Carlos Hardy on October 25 for a hearing on the probation request she entered after a jury found her guilty. The penalty for manslaughter is one to 10 years in San Quentin.

Furnishings Taken From Cult Temple

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The temple of the "Great Eleven" cult, in which members of the religious order practiced their weird rituals before the state stepped in to investigate, today was denuded of elaborate furnishings valued at $20,000.

The temple was stripped by deputy sheriffs who were armed with a writ obtained by Clifford Dabney, wealthy oil man and former cultist, who alleges he "donated" $40,000 to the cult and received in exchange only the title "Hereafter and Now."

The move was the second made by Dabney to seek redress from the "Great Eleven" in which he once was an enthusiastic participant.

ALBERT B. FALL TRIAL TO END ON SATURDAY

Defense Expects to Finish Its Case and Begin Arguments Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — Former Interior Secretary Albert B. Fall's lawyers will close his defense case in his bribery trial today after Edward L. Doheny, the oil king, and Mrs. Doheny gave their versions of the $100,000 transaction in 1921 which preceded Doheny's lease of the Elk Hills reserve.

Doheny, vigorous despite his 74 years, is under indictment for giving the same alleged bribe, and the decision in this case may determine whether he will have to stand trial.

The rosy-cheeked, white-haired millionaire has contended from the first the money was just a "friendly loan." He has said he tore in two the demand note which Fall gave him, so that Fall would not be bothered in case both he and his wife died suddenly.

This "loan" was given just to help Fall save his New Mexico ranch from a possible water shortage, according to testimony given at an earlier oil trial by E. L. "Ned" Doheny, jr., the only son of the oil man.

"Ned" Doheny was killed by an insane employe a few months ago, and the defense yesterday read his testimony to the jury, including a statement that "My secretary,—a man named Plunket" accompanied young Doheny to Washington when he brought Fall the $100,000.

Attorneys hoped closing arguments might be started this afternoon. It is unlikely they will be completed by tomorrow noon. Under District of Columbia law, the locked-up jury cannot continue through the week end, as the legal holiday commences at noon Saturday.

SAN GABRIEL DAM REPORT DUE SOON

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The question of whether or not a high or low dam or any dam at all will be constructed at the forks site of the San Gabriel canyon will not be decided until the return to Sacramento of State Engineer Edward Hyatt, it was announced today.

Hyatt, accompanied by Supervisor H. W. Wright, County Flood Control Engineer E. C. Eaton, County Resident Engineer E. B Davey and Robert and Louis Hill, geologists, spent the better part of yesterday afternoon examining geological formations at the site of the proposed $25,000,000 dam. Hyatt refused to make any statement concerning his findings other than saying that his decision would be made several days after his return to Sacramento.

Only 4 Other Counties Are Ranked Higher

Report of State Controller Is Received By Auditor This Morning

ORANGE COUNTY continues to occupy an enviable position among the 58 counties of the state, ranking fifth in the value of property taxable by the county, fifth in the grand total value of all its property, and having the fourth lowest tax rate inside cities, according to a report from the state controller received today by County Auditor W. C. Jerome.

Jerome pointed out today that in reality this county has probably as low a tax rate as any county in the state owing to the fact that property is assessed at a lower proportion of its actual value than it is in counties where the actual rate is lower than it is here.

Only five counties have a tax rate for territory outside cities which is lower than that of Orange county, the report showed. The Orange county tax rate inside cities is $1.45 per $100 of assessed valuation and outside cities it is $1.85 per $100.

The report revealed a 20 per cent increase in the grand total value of all property in the state during the past year. The value this year is $9,885,803,184, compared with $8,123,000,000 for last year. Los Angeles county shows the greatest increase, having raised its value by about $900,000.

Jerome called attention today to the fact that the assessed value of Los Angeles county alone is equal or greater than the combined property value of 10 western states.

The value of Orange county's non-operative property, that which is taxable by the county, is $179,460,750. Operative property is valued at $39,000,975. The value of railroads as assessed by the state board of equalization of $8,807,287. The grand total values of Orange county property was given in the report as $218,269,012.

San Diego county boosted its valuation from about $140,000,000 last year to $264,362,251 this year. A board of appraisement revaluated San Diego county property some time ago and the jump in assessed valuation reflects increases which came about largely as a result of that appraisal.

Counties which have a larger amount of taxable property than Orange county are Los Angeles, San Francisco, Alameda and San Diego counties. Kern county, which always runs Orange county a close race, is in sixth place.

Counties with lower tax rates inside cities are Kern, Los Angeles and Madera. Those with lower rates outside cities are Alpine, Kern, Los Angeles, Madera and Mono counties.

ENGINEER DENIES L. A. DAM WEAK

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Moisture oozing from a seam in the east embankment of the Santa Anita canyon dam about 15 feet from where the concrete structure connects with the rock resulted in the circulation of rumors that the dam was in danger of breaking, it was said here today.

According to E. C. Eaton, county flood control engineer, there is no danger of the dam giving way. All rock, he said, contains almost invisible cracks. Holes are drilled into such fissures and liquid cement forced in under high pressure, completely sealing up the crack, Eaton said.

JURY DEBATES FATE OF 3 L. A. OFFICERS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—A jury of seven men and five women today deliberated the case of Oscar L. Peterson, Harry M. Hill and Leonard F. Sale, Los Angeles policemen charged with accepting a bribe of $600 from Harry McDonald, a confessed bootlegger.

The jury debated for six hours last night after Deputy District Attorney George McKay urged them "not to feel this is a case on which the police department is on trial, but to feel that these men are individuals charged with a felony."

Texas Guinan Loses Suit For $105,000

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The matter of whether Texas Guinan, Broadway night club hostess, is capable of earning $5000 a week as an actress, won't be settled here.

Her suit against the Los Angeles Railway company for $100,000 personal damages and $5000 damages for loss of a week's work in films, has been thrown out of court.

Company officials established to the satisfaction of Superior Judge Gates that the railway truck which encountered an automobile in which Miss Guinan was riding, was being driven by a man who was off duty and who was not engaged in company business.

LOCAL PISTON FACTORY PLANS NEW BUILDING

Kinslow Announces Incorporation of Concern for Over $350,000

ANNOUNCEMENT was made today by Henry M. Kinslow, president of the Vitalite corporation, manufacturers of the now famous Vitalite piston, of the incorporation of the company under the state laws of California, for $350,000, and the general expansion of the business, which for the past two years has rapidly become one of the leading industries of Santa Ana.

The new board of directors, announced for the first time today is composed of Henry M. Kinslow, Richard F. Cribaro, Homer C. Chaney, John S. McCarty and Byron V. Curry.

Announcement also was made to the effect that the company already had architect's plans for the first unit of a modern factory to be built by the corporation on its property located in the 2300 block on South Main street.

Kinslow and Cribaro have been manufacturing the Vitalite alloy piston here for the past two years at the Kinslow Machine Shops on West Fifth street. The rapid growth of the industry has cramped the quarters and it will be necessary in the very near future to SACRAMENTO, Oct. 18.—Convicted of murdering her estranged husband, Mrs. Mary Slayback, of Sacramento, today faced a sentence of five years to life in prison.

The jury hearing the case brought in a verdict of second degree murder late last night after deliberating for 6½ hours. Mrs. Laura Robinson, Mrs. Slayback's mother, burst into tears when the decision was announced, and was assisted from the courtroom by her daughter.

Sentence will be pronounced upon the woman by Judge John F. Pullen next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

INVESTMENT GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

QUEBEC, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Election of officers and governors was the closing business today of the 18th annual convention of the Investment Bankers' association here.

There was only one nominee for president—Trowbridge Calloway, of New York, a member of the board of governors.

In a report presented yesterday by the committee on trends of the business, the opinion was given that buying of bonds would become popular again when stock market profits cease to encourage speculation.

Book Salesman Arrested On Perjury Charges Will Take Stand, Fitts Says

MRS. PANTAGES ILL

Publicity Man Says He Saw Pringle Girl in Office Of Magnate at 11 P. M.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Through a series of medical experts, Alexander Pantages, 54-year-old theater magnate, today continued his attempt to prove to a jury that he is not guilty of a criminal assault on Eunice Pringle, a young amateur dancer.

One after another noted physicians went to the stand in Superior Judge Fricke's court and testified there was no evidence to substantiate the 17-year-old girl's charge that she was attacked by Pantages on August 9.

The tests by which Rex. Welch, county chemist and state's witness, claimed he made certain Miss Pringle had been assaulted by Pantages were discounted by two witnesses.

Dr. D. H. Gibbs, bacteriologist, and Dr. W. B. Dakin, gynecologist, both gave highly technical testimony directly contrary to that of Welch.

Cross examination of the physicians did not shake their testimony.

District Attorney Buron Fitts finally drew from both Dr. Gibbs and Dr. Dakin the admission that they were to get fees for their testimony.

Each pointed out however that such a fee was customary.

The physicians both said they were brought into the case by Dr. E. C. Fishbraught, who has had charge of Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of Alexander Pantages, during her critical illness which followed her conviction recently on a manslaughter count.

Dr. Fishbaught announced during the day that Mrs. Pantages' condition was still very grave. He said she was suffering from pneumonia.

Dr. Roy Hammack, bacteriologist, followed Mrs. Gibbs and Dakin to the stand.

Garland Biffle, indicted on a count of perjury after he testified for the defense at the trial of Alexander Pantages on assault charges, probably will return to the witness stand late today.

District Attorney Buron Fitts announced he expected to call the San Francisco law book salesman and ask him a few impeaching questions.

Biffle was to be recalled for his brief questioning after Jake Rosenstein, publicity man finished his testimony.

At the morning session Rosenstein said he had seen Miss Pringle at Pantages' office as late as 11:15 p. m.

He said that she was alone on night visits "some of the time."

Rosenstein took the stand after the defense presented medical defense to the effect that Pantages did not attack the girl.

BILL FOR LIQUOR INVOLVED IN SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The federal government today was on record as opposed to methods whereby Rod La Roque and Mitchell Lewis, motion picture actors, assertedly spent approximately $2000 for liquor and checked the amount off their respective income tax accounts under the rather vague headings of "entertainment" and "publicity."

The government's objection became known in a bill of particulars filed in the U. S. district court here in the case of J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood tax expert, under indictment on a charge of making and returning false and fraudulent returns for a number of Hollywood celebrities.

According to the bill of particulars, La Roque spent approximately $1444.66 for liquor and the sum listed as "entertainment." Lewis' liquor bill was $373.76, the bill alleged and for the purpose of the tax return this became publicity and advertising.

ness just as great development and advancement of the institution as have occurred in the past five years, a period during which the bank has been most active in extending its program of branch institutions.

"On a recent trip through the state of California, I found a Bank of Italy on the principal corner in every city which I visited, and even in some of the smaller communities and everywhere I encountered courteous managers and employees," Chapman said, in stressing the point of the phenomenal growth of the bank.

Chapman who is a member of the board of directors of the southern regional division of the bank, recounted that the financial institution was started in San Francisco by L. Scatena and Giannini, Italian fruit merchants, to take care of the banking needs of their countrymen. He related that in the early days of his experience in marketing valencia oranges from his Fullerton ranch he had shipped fruit to Scatena.

"Both men had a sincere and honest purpose to deal honestly with stockholders and to serve the public faithfully, and the institution never has deviated from that policy," said the speaker.

Referring to the policy of the bank of limiting occupancy of the presidency of one man to five years Chapman spoke of the retirement today of Bacigalupi and the succession to the position of Arnold J. Mount.

"Bacigalupi has served for five years and no bank has made greater advancement in that period than the Bank of Italy," said the orange grower in commenting on the capabilities of the retiring president. He contrasted the time limit of this concern with the usual policy of banks in maintaining year after year men who have evidenced competence to direct the affairs of large financial institutions. He explained that the policy is beneficial in that a man elected to the presidency exercises every energy to promote the interest of his concern during his administration, whereas one holding such a position for years is liable to "let down" a little.

Deposits Increase

The speaker made reference to the present campaign to increase the bank's resources to $1,000,000,000, and said that monthly reports revealed that deposits are increasing approximately $17,000,000 a month.

Chapman paid highly deserved personal tribute to Giannini and Bacigalupi, stressing the fine qualities and purposes of each.

Cotant read the anniversary message of the retiring president recounting the progress of the bank in the five years he has been at the head.

"The greatest single event in the five-year period that contributed to our advancement came in 1927," the message reads. "In the early part of that year congress enacted into law the McFadden bill, which effectively liberalized and modernized the national bank act. The event rendered possible and advisable the great consolidation, in February, of our affiliated banking institutions — the Liberty Bank of America, the Italian-American bank and the rest, thus giving to the Baik of Italy 178 additional offices.

"Next in order, on March 1, came tht nationalization of the bank. This act not only cemented our membership in the federal reserve system, but permitted us to take a prominent place among the great national banks of the country, thereby adding greater prestige to California."

After reciting the numerous services introduced for the benefit of patrons, the retiring president recounts that on June 30, 1924, capital, surplus and undivided profits of the bank were $24,678,474, whereas after the consolidation in 1927, caiptal, surplus and undivided profits, combined with the National Bankitaly company, were in excess of $200,000,000. He advised that total resources increased from $326,509,405.36 in 1924 to $851,705,810.10 in 1929, a gain of $525,196,404.34 or 160.9 per cent. Savings deposits in 1924 were $204,591,886.80, while in 1929 they had grown to $477,953,271.16, an increase of $273,161,394.81, or 133.5 per cent. Commercial deposits also showed a tremendous increase, he said, going from $92,384,118.91 in 1924 to $227,188,223.32, a gain of $134,804,104.41, or 145.9 per cent.

Message Is Read

"On June 30, 1924, we enjoyed a reputation as one of the great financial institutions of America," reads the message. "We then had 86 banking offices in 58 cities of California, while our progressive policy of expansion had centered the eyes of the nation's bankers upon us. The Bank of Italy was a mere pigmy compared to the giant of today. Instead of 86 branches in 58 cities, we now have 292 offices providing metropolitan banking service to customers in 166 cities from the Oregon line to the Mexican border.

"From the despised role of the 'outlaw,' as so many of the old-line American bankers were wont to allude to our institution up to only a few years ago, the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association is today the model after which many of our country's leading banks are seeking to fashion their institutions. From the pioneer we have suddenly become the proven exemplar of what a modern bank should be.

"As great os have been our bank's past accomplishments, I firmly believe that the years yet to come will witness an even greater growth and prosperity in the Bank of Italy as the field of operation broadens apace with the inevitable extension and development of branch banking in our great country."

Brief telegraphic messages from Giannini and Mount were read by Cotant.

Dr. J. G. Hilleary, vice president of the First National bank of Anaheim, whose stock is owned by Transamerica, officiated as toastmaster, and during the course of the evening introduced the following managers of branch banks in Orange county: E. E. Smith, Anaheim; C. E. Everett, Placentia; R. C. Raddant, Orange; Thomas Taylor, Fullerton; H. H. Benjamin, president of the First National of Anaheim, and O. T. Jensen, of San Diego, supervisor of Bank of Italy banks in the south district, also were present.

In an addition to the address by Chapman, the program consisted of vocal selections by Herbert Brown, readings by Holly Lash Visey, cello solos by Ewin Burns and community singing led by Harry Warne, of the local branch. Miss Ruth Armstrong was accompanist.

The program followed a chicken dinner served by the inn management.

Dancing to the strains of music furnished by the Jack Gledhill orchestra concluded the evening.

Santa Ana Youth Asks Annulment Of Yuma Wedlock

The moral of this story, if any, might be taken to heart by Orange county couples who leave the state to avoid the three-day wait necessary to secure a marriage license here.

Whether there is any moral to the story or not, William T. Pinnix, of Santa Ana, journeyed to Yuma, Ariz., and there became the husband of Lucille Shields, 19, also of this city. The ceremony was performed on September 16.

Today a report from Yuma stated that Pinnix has filed suit for annulment of the marriage. Pinnix claimed that he was only 19 when the wedding took place. An additional foundation for his request for annulment, he asserted in his suit that his bride already was married at the time she married him.

Police News

An automobile, reported stolen from Paul Navaette, 2222 West Fifth street, last night, from near the Franklin schoolhouse, on West Fourth street, was recovered by C. V. Adams, detective sergeant, several hours later. The car had been abandoned near Seventh and Artesia streets.

W. G. Danley, 1410 French street, reported to the police yesterday that two tires had been stolen from his automobile.

Police today were searching for the occupants of an automobile who, shortly after midnight this morning, broke two windows on West Fifth street by throwing oranges through them. One window was broken at the place of E. F. Carlyle, 2002 West Fifth street, and the other in the store of Lucero and Gonzales, at 2026 West Fifth street.

Lewis Hensley, 26, and Joe Swartz, 33, were arrested near the Santa Fe railroad station here early this morning by Officer J. W. Murray on vagrancy charges. They were lodged in the county jail.

Twenty-five hundred dollars has been appropriated to pay cash commissions so that everyone who works in this campaign will be well paid for his effort. If you do not secure one of the major awards, you will win a cash prize nevertheless. You will be paid 10 per cent on all new and renewal subscription contracts, based on the regular subscription price of the Santa Ana Daily Register that you turn in, just as if you had turned in the cash.

Every subscription you turn in, New or Renewal, credits you with votes. After the close of the campaign, December 18, the contestant having the highest total of votes will be awarded the first grand prize of $2000. To the contestant having the second highest total of votes, $1500 will be awarded; to the third highest, $1200; to the fourth highest, $1000; to the fifth highest, $500.

After the five grand prize winners have been eliminated, the highest in vote standing in each of the five districts will receive $200, and the second highest in each district will receive $100. All those who do not win one of the major awards will be paid cash commissions on the subscriptions they turn in.

There never was a more generous offer ever made. You'll not have long to wait, only a few short weeks and all this cash will be paid out in time for Christmas. Don't let such an opportun... as this pass by. Call at the campaign headquarters, room 8 The Register Building, and you will be given blanks for taking subscriptions.

COUNTY JUNIOR COLLEGE TOPIC AT BREA MEET

BREA, Oct. 18.—The junior college question was discussed at a meeting of the Brea Chamber of Commerce held in Brea-Olinda high school last night, Ralph McFadden, of Placentia, presenting the arguments in favor of a college for the northern part of the county, and A. O. Andrew, assistant superintendent of the Brea school, giving the factors in favor of a single college for the county.

The college situation as a whole was discussed by Dr. W. E. Jackson, of Brea, J. W. Carmichael, of Fullerton, gave an interesting talk on "County Unity." A musical program of songs was given by Harry Fellinge, of Fullerton, with Phil Benson as his accompanist.

The meeting was one of a series of night meetings planned for the winter, one of which is to be held each month. Programs will be sponsored by various organizations and industries. Last night the program was given by the Shaffer Tool works, Frank Mason, superintendent of the concern, acting as toastmaster for the occasion. Mason introduced W. B. Shaffer, head of the company, and a number of the executives.

An expansion program is under way at the tool works, i twas said, and the size of the plant is to be doubled in the near future.

It was announced that a committee from the chamber of commerce would be appointed soon to work with Eugene Kahen, of Santa Ana, on grand opera for the county.

Women of the First Christian church served the dinner. Sixty-four were present.

find new quarters, it was explained in announcing the erection of the new plant.

There are at the present time 50 jobbers in the state of California handling the Santa Ana product and it is the purpose of the new concern to distribute the piston nationally with headquarters in all the principal cities of the country.

By virtue of its design the Vitalite piston is destined to replace pistons in millions of automobiles and airplanes throughout the country, according to a statement made today by Kinslow.

The Vitalite piston is now the standard equipment in the Axelton Airplane motor, and the Kinner Airplane corporation at Glendale. It has stood the most rigid tests of the Bureau of Commerce at Washington, D. C., and is now being tested in the McClatchie and Rocky Mountain motors, in Washington, it was said.

"A fair estimate of the average yearly replacement of the 120,000,000 pistons in cars used and the 30,000,000 pistons in the new cars produced annually, would be 70,000,000 pistons a year," said Kinslow today. "If the Vitalite corporation supplies only one-half of one per cent of this estimated replacement, it would require an output of 350,000 pistons yearly," he said.

don by the prime minister with the American ambassador during the last three months had cleared the ground for an agreement on essential points between the British and American government, prior to the invitation extended to other naval powers to meet in a conference. My government attaches the highest importance to the same procedure being followed by the Japanese and British governments, in order to ensure agreement between them on various questions that are to be laid before the conference. The success of the forthcoming conference no doubt depends in a large measure upon the satisfactory issue of such preliminary discussions, and my government confidently trusts that the informal conversations between the British government and myself on questions of special moment will be carried on and completed before these questions are presented to the conference for final adjustment.

"With regard to the four points of principle mentioned in your note as the subject of provisional agreement between the British and American government, the Japanese government hopes to be able to submit their observations in the course of the informal conversations which I shall permit myself to hold with the British government. They would, however, make use of this occasion to assure you of their cordial support to the principle that the treaty for the renunciation of war signed at Paris in 1928, should be taken as the starting point for all discussion on disarmament. They feel confident that the sense of national security inspired by the provision of that treaty in the mutual relations of the contracting powers will pave the way for the final settlement of the outstanding questions relative to naval disarmament."

The note expressed the hope of the Japanese government that the conference would succeed in relieving "humanity of the heavy burden of armament whether existing or contemplated."

ETHICS DISCUSSION SLATED FOR LAWYERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Raising of ethical standards of the law profession, in the opinion of Gurney E. Newlin, Los Angeles, president of the American Bar asssociation, will be one of the principal problems considered at the association convention here next week, he said in an interview today.

Educational standards and requirements already are high enough, he believed, but apprenticeship for young lawyers along the line of interne positions for medical graduates would be of value.

Newlin said the prohibition question will not be discussed, but "lawless enforcement of the law" would be in his opening speech.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

The new driver of an automobile attains calmness and confidence only when he realizes that he has no concern at a given moment with any of the cars behind him nor with the multitude he must pass an hour hence. His sole responsibility is to drive a safe course in relation to the cars just ahead.

Life is like that. You have to live only a day, an hour, at a time. The past is behind you. Do not conjure up fears regarding what may have to be faced tomorrow. Open your heart to God and ask for strength to be brave and true just for an hour. Then begin again. The day will be done ere you knew it.

UNDERWRITERS FOR VENTURE BEING SOUGHT

Grand opera in Orange county!

Such is the ambitious dream of a number of music lovers in this community who are seeking to give Santa Ana and the county as a whole a one-night "season" of grand opera such as is usually known only in a metropolis, but which has been enthusiastically adopted by Long Beach, where the Long Beach Grand Opera company has been formed with Guido H. Caselotti as founder and director.

Recognizing the possibilities of other communities following the example of the Beach city, Caselotti has offered this city a performance of La Traviata by Verdi, following the presentation of the opera in Long Beach Municipal auditorium on the night of November 19, with Cianfoni, founder and director of the Santa Ana Conservatory of Music, as orchestra director.

Ask Underwriters

Ever since the offer was made by the director, music lovers interested in the plan have been working quietly to secure the necessary underwriters for the venture and have been meeting with gratifying response in Fullerton, Anaheim and other cities of Orange county in addition to Santa Ana. It has been estimated that 50 underwriters will be necessary to assure the success of the venture, but it is believed that response from the public will be so complete that there will be no possibility of financial loss to these pioneers in the field.

Principals in "La Traviata" will be Mme. Maria Caselotti, as "Violette"; Luis Alvarez, the great Spanish tenor, as "Alfredo," and William Blust, as "Germont." In addition there will be a chorus of over 75 singers and a 20-piece orchestra, forming altogether a cast of 100.

Maria Caselotti formerly was of the Royal Opera house, in Rome, where she had the signal honor of singing principal roles four times in a single week, receiving ovations that never had been equalled by other artists. Although she was born in Italy, she considers herself essentially an American singer, feeling that her greatest training has been in this country.

The Long Beach Grand Opera company, in which she now stars, was founded two years ago with leaders in social and business circles as patrons. While many fine productions have been offered the opera-loving public in the two seasons, it is definitely stated that "La Traviata" is the biggest thing yet attempted in the city and the willingness on the part of the company to extend its field to Orange county is highly appreciated by music lovers here.

Plan Low Scale of Prices

"It is well known that prices for grand opera in Los Angeles make attendance prohibitive for most of us," today stated the orchestra director, D. C. Cianfoni. "For that reason we feel that the presentation of 'La Traviata' with a scale of prices ranging from $1 to $2.50 will bring the performance within reach of everyone and insure playing to a packed house."

While no definite date will be selected until the necessary underwriters all have been secured, it is the intention of those interested to avoid all conflict with such attractions as the Cantando club concert, on November 18, or the Santa Ana Community play, on November 21, 22 and 23, so the tentative date of November 26 has been discussed.

Harvey Haslam, 16, of San Diego, was taken into custody at Fourth and Artesia streets yesterday afternoon as a runaway boy. Officers here are attempting to locate his parents in San Diego.

As a result, Zuniga was freed of the charge for lack of evidence.

Zuniga was charged with taking the girl away from her home here and living with her in Arlington.

SEEK $5000 FROM SURETY COMPANY

Seeking judgment for $5000, the Williams Plan company, of Anaheim, today filed suit against the Detroit Fidelity an dSurety company, asserting that the defendant had refused to make good on the bond of Harry Dierker, former official of the concern, who embezzled $5736.45 from the firm, according to the complaint.

Dierker, who has been held to answer to the superior court here on a charge of grand theft, took the money prior to Oct. 19, 1928, the complaint stated. After the plaintiff firm made a statement of its loss to the bonding house, the latter waived the provision of the bond requiring a verification of the proof of loss, but later refused to pay the amount of the bond, the complaint declared.

It was filed through S. M. Reinhaus, Santa Ana attorney.

Denies Guilt In Delinquency Case

Cora Tays, charged with contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls by inducing them to steal a $15 dress, pleaded not guilty when she was arraigned before Superior Judge James L. Allen after an information had been filed against her by Deputy District Attorney S. B. Kaufman.

Represented by A. J. Thedieck, Huntington Beach attorney, the defendant denied her guilt and asked for a jury trial. The date of the hearing was set for 9:30 a. m., October 24.

It is asserted that the woman induced the girls to steal the dress with the intent of having them deliver it to her.

Four concerts are contemplated on dates to be determined later and it is understood that efforts will be made to have one or two prominent conductors come here to direct the orchestra in one or two of its programs. Those in charge have hopes of procuring Alfred Hertz, former conductor of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra, for one of the concerts.

NEW BUS LINES IN OPERATION IN SANTA ANA

Bus service in Santa Ana started this morning under the operation of C. H. Eckles, with practically the same time schedules as were in effect when the lines were operated by the Pacific Electric but with considerably more territory served. The additional service was made possible by rerouting of two lines, the West Second street and East Washington avenue lines, so that they made loop trips rather than going and returning over the same streets.

The new busses ordered by Eckles for use on the Santa Ana system were not completed in time to inaugurate the service today and he is using reserve busses from his lines in Whittier, where he took over the service several years ago after the Pacific Electric was forced to suspend operation due to losses. He is renting additional equipment from the Pacific Electric until the O. H. Egge company makes delivery on the modern busses ordered for service here.

In a statement issued today, Eckles asked the co-operation of the citizens of the community in making the continuance of the service possible by patronizing the lines and making suggestions for the improvement of the service. B. H. Miller is superintendent of the system in Santa Ana.

SPEICH OFF ON VACATION TRIP: TO HUNT DEER

Verne Speich, Santa Ana aviator, and a party of friends left today for the Kaibab forest, where they will spend several days deer hunting. Speich is making the trip a vacation after the round of celebrations and dinners that followed his record-making endurance flight in his Zenith biplane.

The trip is being made by motor and the party expects to return in about a week.

The new record holder for sustained solo flight was the guest of honor at a dinner dance in the Cocoanut Grove in Long Beach, last night, given by the young men's division of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce. That affair was the final event in a round of celebrations feting the pilot who made a new record of 38 hours and 48 seconds in the air alone and without refueling contacts. He was honored at a big celebration in Brawley, his former home, last Wednesday. A luncheon at noon and a dinner and smoker at night were part of the festivities arranged by the residents of the valley city.

Railroads in the Uunited States and Canada last year were forced to pay more than $11,000,000 in claims against them filed by producers of farm and dairy products.

OVER 800 VISIT NEW STORE OF RUTHERFORDS

Two sisters, whose invasion into the business world began 21 years ago, Mrs. Harriet Rutherford Bonnell and Miss Myrtle Rutherford, received the congratulations of more than 800 citizens of this city at the formal opening of their new establishment in the Stahl building yesterday afternoon and last night.

Beginning here with a small millinery shop, the two women now hold an enviable position among the most select women's specialty firms in the Southland. The new store is equipped in modern detail with consideration for elite tastes. An atmosphere of refinement pervades the well known shop.

In commenting this morning on her sensations regarding the opening, Mrs. Bonnell explained how her vision has been realized. The store has been arranged with an eye to beauty as well as convenience. All the plans were drawn according to the specifications of the sisters.

A particularly interesting feature of the establishment is the fine tapestry hangings on the walls of the fitting rooms, which are easily accessible to the ready-to-wear department.

Souvenir gifts were presented guests at the opening. These included torpedos, cigars, sachets, cigarets and chocolates. Music during the evening was furnished by the Yellow Jackets' orchestra, under the direction of Ruby Fowler.

Miss Myrtle Rutherford, Miss Susan Rutherford, Mrs. Harriet Rutherford Bonnell, Mrs. Howard Kornder, sisters, and A. H. Brown received the guests. Assisting them were the head saleswoman, Mrs. Hazel Hill, Mrs. William McConnell, Mrs. Olive Golden, Mrs. Agnes Lindig, Mrs. Ben Baker, Miss Betty Griffin and Miss Olga Hess, designer.

Numerous baskets of early fall flowers were congratulatory expressions from neighbor firms and interested friends of the sisters.

CHAIN STORES TO HAVE TEAM IN CHEST DRIVE

Creation of a new division and selection of a strong personnel to direct its efforts were announced today by W. A. Taylor, president of the Santa Ana Community Chest. The new division is to be known as the chain store division and will direct its efforts to securing the support of the many chain store organizations that are represented in Santa Ana.

Jack Lansdowne, manager of the J. C. Penney store, has been selected to head the organization and has an able assistant in the person of E. M. Fletcher, manager of the Montgomery Ward store. Other members of the committee for solicitation of the various chain stores in the community are C. E. Rutledge, of the Southern Counties Gas company, and W. C. Jerome, county auditor.

Lansdowne and Fletcher have expressed themselves as strongly in favor of the Chest plan and have assured the substantial financial support of their organizations to the sucess of the drive for funds which will be started next month. Both men have recommended increases in the donations which have been made by their organizations in the past and state that they are confident that their recommendations will be followed. The leaders indicated that they felt the chain stores had a very material obligation to assist in the work of the Community Chest and must take part in the activities of the community by supporting them if they wished to receive the continued support of the citizens.

An intensive campaign will be conducted by the new division to give every chain organization outlet in the city an opportunity to show their interest in the welfare of the community by taking part in the Chest work, making contributions commensurate to their ability and standing in the community.

HELD TO ANSWER ON THEFT CHARGE

Dolores Pacheco, Wintersburg man, charged with burglary, was held to answer to the superior court from Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning at the conclusion of his preliminary examination. He failed to make bail of $1000.

Pacheco was arrested several weeks ago by E. M. Jemison, deputy sheriff, when he was asserted to have been found smoking a "pipe with a green spot on it," reported by Jemison as being the only pipe of its kind in the county. The pipe, according to officers, was part of the haul the burglar made when a store in Wintersburg was looted.

DRAWS 25-DAY TERM

William Lester, 50, Fullerton fruit peddler, was brought to the county jail yesterday afternoon to serve 25 days or pay a fine of $50 on a reckless driving charge. Lester is asserted to have driven his fruit truck in a reckless manner down the main streets of Fullerton several days ago.

Asks $10,000 As Result Of Dog's Death

H. E. Burns, Seal Beach police officer, today was defendant in a $10,000 damage suit brought against him by Herbert Reents, of Los Angeles, who accused the defendant of striking his pedigreed Russian wolfhound on July 19. As a result of the blow the animal died, the complaint stated.

The suit originally was filed in Los Angeles county, but Burns succeeded in securing a change of venue, bringing the case before the superior court here. According to Reents, his dog was worth $5000. In addition to that amount he requested $5000 exemplary damages "by way of an example."

FOUR SQUARE CHURCH PLANS REVIVAL MEET

Anticipating an attempt by Aimee Semple McPherson to reorganize her church here, following action of the Santa Ana church in withdrawing from her organization, the Rev. C. F. Brown, pastor of the withdrawing congregation, today announced that a revival would start in the church at Sycamore and Fairview streets at 7:30 Sunday night.

William Watson, a young revivalist who has been successful in work here and in the east, will conduct the services, the pastor announced.

The evangelist was pastor in the St. Louis church of Aimee Semple McPherson at the time of the recent trouble there following a visit of the head of International Lighthouse, Inc., the Rev. Mr. Brown revealed today. At the same time he disclosed that the Rev. Mr. Watson is a graduate of Angelus Temple and that he is one of the ministers who have taken exception to the policies of Mrs. McPherson.

"The evangelist has never failed to stir congregations at meetings he has conducted in the east and on the coast," said the Rev. Mr. Brown.

"He will bring messages on salvation, divine healing, baptism of the Holy Spirit and on the second coming of Christ as well as the fundamental doctrines of the Bible."

There will be special musical numbers each night, the numbers by the choir being featured by an illustrated song, "The Sunshine and the Song."

The Rev. Mr. and Rev. Mrs. Brown today extended an invitation to other churches of the city to co-operate and assist in the revival.

Vagrant Believed Wanted In Kansas On Parole Charge

The sheriff's office today was making an investigation into the past life of Lewis Hensley, 26, arrested here early this morning by city officers on a vagrancy charge.

According to fingerprints in the files of Herman Zabel, fingerprint expert, Hensley is the L. B. Hensley who at one time served a term in the Kansas state reformatory and who, according to records, is wanted for violation of parole.

According to Zabel, Hensley admitted being the L. B. Hensley of the Kansas reformatory, but denies he is wanted for any offense.

HUSBAND LIAR, SAYS SPOUSE IN DIVORCE ACTION

Accusing her husband of writing cold checks and of telling lies "when in most cases the truth would have served better," Dorothy O'Donnell today filed suit for divorce against Harold "Shorty" O'Donnell in superior court here.

O'Donnell lied to his wife about personal and financial affairs and he lied to friends of both parties in the presence of his wife when those hearing him could hardly help knowing he lied, and when there was no occasion for falsehood, the complaint stated.

Mrs. O'Donnell declared that last August her husband pleaded guilty in Long Beach on a bad check charge and received a 90-day suspended sentence.

Friends to whom he had given checks often came to her and presented them for poyment. Mrs. O'Donnell said in her complaint.

RIVERSIDES

Why you can save $2 to $15 on every tire you buy at WARD'S

MILLIONS OF MOTORISTS, all over the world, already ride on RIVERSIDE Tires—and still more millions soon will.

You will agree that .... with the Super-Service RIVERSIDE guaranteed for a minimum of 30,000 miles—the First-Quality RIVERSIDE guaranteed for a minimum of 16,000 miles—and the WARDWEAR for 10,000 .... these tires simply must be tires of quality!

And then—on comparing RIVERSIDE prices with many other high-grade makes that are not officially guaranteed for any specific mileage—you are astonished to find that at Ward's your saving per tire ranges from $2 to $15!

It's surprising. You are frankly puzzled. You discovered, long ago, that there's no such thing as "getting something for nothing." Therefore, when you find, in tires, high quality, provable quality and guaranteed quality .... coupled with prices so low they seem to contradict all that .... you "wonder," don't you?

You needn't! For the simple explanation lies in Ward's plan of selling to the user direct.

Instead of cutting quality in any shape or manner, we merely cut out most of the in-between profits of ordinary distribution! Thus you are protected at both ends of your transaction: on Quality, by the guarantees .... on Economy, by the unusual savings of Ward's low prices.

Do you know of—or need—any better reasons for putting Montgomery Ward & Co. tires on your car? .... Or any better arguments than these facts proving why you save $2 to $15 on every tire you buy?

Don't buy any other tire unless more miles are guaranteed!

SUGGEST WAYS TO AID TRADE WITH ORIENT

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17.—To establish trade relations between California and the half of the world's population which lives in the far east, 50 suggestions have been made to the state chamber of commerce by Charles B. Spofford, American trade commissioner, and Julian Arnold, American commercial attache for China, representing the United States department of commerce.

Among the suggestions were:

California newspapers publish more China and India news.

Insist upon trans-Pacific telegraphic rates comparable with those on the Atlantic.

Back an American school of journalism for Chinese at Shanghai.

Induce map publishers to feature Pacific regions in world maps for use in schools in California.

Induce California secondary schools to institute courses in the fundamentals of Oriental civilizations.

Support American college in both China and India to train Americans in those countries on Oriental subjects.

Develop in California the most complete library in the west on Oriental subjects.

Develop in California an annual Oriental pageant of such character as to attract people from all over the country.

Carry California to the Orient and the Orient to California in thoughtfully prepared motion pictures.

Maintain in San Francisco a small standing committee of carefully selected Orientals and Americans to investigate and report upon complaint by Orientals against treatment accorded them in California.

Erect in a commercial center in California a skyscrapper pagoda as a business building to California's interest in China, and erect a "House of the Orient," patterned after India house, New York.

Maintain the state chamber of commerce a special standing committee to advance California interests in the far east.

Emphasize that India has compartively low import duties and no imperial or preferential tariffs exist.

Encourage direct silver bullion shipments to India via Pacific ocean rather than the Atlantic in order that faster freight service for other classes of merchandise may be made possible.

A. T. Gillespie, San Francisco exporter, added to these suggestions that cold storage plants should be established at the larger Oriental ports, especially, he said, at Calcutta.

Special committees will be appointed to further these recommendations, it was announced by officials of the state chamber of commerce.

The drawing-room tragedy that began in the dining-room

NOT SO many years ago she would only laugh gaily when asked the secret of her alluring complexion, sparkling eyes, radiant manner. She hadn't the slightest idea. But now, so unhappy over her wan, haggard face — her dull eyes and constant fatigue, she was as much at a loss to know why her beauty had gone. It couldn't be her diet . . . she was so careful about what she ate.

Unfortunately, her diet was to blame. For in her menus she had neglected to include dishes with that all-important element—roughage. The result was constipation which was poisoning her system—stealing her beauty.

What a pity so many women and men do not realize the value of roughage! And more—do not know that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a delicious cereal—can supply roughage and bring sure relief from constipation!

Why ALL-BRAN is so effective

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in most generous quantity. This bulk absorbs moisture and distributes it through the digestive system. Gently exercising the intestines—sweeping out poisons. In a part-bran product there is seldom sufficient bulk to completely perform this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. How much better than habit-forming drugs whose dose must be increased—which may injure the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an inviting cereal to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking—recipes on package. Mix it with other cereals. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve it in some form regularly and you will protect your family from dread constipation.

ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

DISEASES MAY BE INTRODUCED BY AIRPLANES

BY ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Like huge, disease-carrying mosquitoes, the airplane is menacing the health of California, according to a warning issued by Dr. Walter M. Dickie, state director of public health.

Typhus fever from Mexico may fly on the wings of our commercial ships. When trans-ocean flights become every-day occurances, we shall be perilled by the most dreadful diseases of the Orient.

During the World war in 1918, a French aviator brought by air a dog that developed rabies shortly after its arrival in England. Previously England had been totally free of the infection, but with the arrival of the infected animal, the disease broke out anew. It was not until recently that rabies again were brought under control on the island empire.

Within the next few years, unless strict measures are taken, California may have outbreaks of such plagues as Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, dengue, rabies and numerous diseases found in the Orient and the southern islands.

"Each advancing year finds more airplanes flying across our borders," Dr. Dickie declared. "In some countries adjoining and in relative proximity to our boundaries unusual and extremely fatal diseases are endemic.

"The status of the airplane as a factor in the introduction of serious diseases is certain to be established defeinitely within the next few years; and it must be regulated, as a possible carrier of communicable diseases."

In the case of trans-ocean steamers carrying diseases, the trip usually requires such time that the period of incubation of the germ is allowed to pass and the disease to make its presence felt, thus allowing the quarantine officials to detain the vessel at the harbor.

Because of its great speed, the airplane does not provide such a safeguard, the health director pointed out.

In spite of its valuable uses in carrying scums and spreading insectitudes, Dr. Dickie concluded, these beneficiary works may be quite nullified if the airplane is permitted to introduce severe and communicable disease into places where they are now unknown.

HENRY FORD IS SCHOOLBOY AGAIN

The same school, the same desk, the same desk companion—and Henry Ford, one of the world's richest men, went back to school at Dearborn, Mich., the other day. Ford (indicated by arrow) is shown above at the desk where he sat years ago. At his right is Dr. Edsel Ruddiman, who had the same seat with Ford in school as a youngster, and at his left is Edsel Ford, his son. Standing in the rear of the room is Earl Nelson, teacher of the rebuilt Ford school. Below, Ford is shown as he greeted children on their way to classes. This schoolhouse, built in 1861, was rebuilt by Ford on his Dearborn estate and is now a regular unit in the Dearborn school system.

CALIFORNIA IS 3-1 FAVORITE: PRAISE RIEGELS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—Making its first appearance in the east, the University of California football team was rated a 3 to 1 favorite over Pennsylvania today in getting on tomorrow's great intersectional game at Franklin field.

The east has seen some famous Far Western football teams come on for these encounters, and never has a Western contender gone away defeated.

A tradition has grown up, naturally enough, that teams from the Pacific coast know too much football for their Eastern rivals, and certainly Penn has shown nothing during the 1929 season to justify belief that the Golden Bears can be stopped.

The presence of Roy Riegels, captain of the California team, in the lineup is bound to attract attention. This youngster is one of the best linesmen in the country. In addition, he is the boy who ran the wrong way in the now famous "Tournament of Roses" game against Georgia Tech last New Year's day.

If ever a youngster showed "guts" it was this same Roy Riegels, who survived the most unmerciful razzing any college boy ever had to take and came back to lead his team into action during the current season.

When the subject of that fatal run is brought up, as it so frequently is, Roy's only remark is:

"Well, say what you like, but I still think I was running the right way."

Panorama Heights Developers Play Host To Realtors

Real estate brokers of Orange county who were guests of L. S. Leeson and G. E. Lindley, subdividers of Panorama Heights, at a dinner, last night, in the home of Mrs. Sarah Corbett, on the first unit of the tract, today were enthusiastic over the possibilities of development on that property, following presentation of the beauties of the tract by Sales Manager Price and others. Senator N. T. Edwards was among those who made brief remarks. An excellent dinner was served in the patio of the palatial home.

BOLSA

BOLSA, Oct. 18.—Arthur Penapel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Penapel, of the McDonald ranch, who has been a patient in an Anaheim hospital since being run over a week ago by a creamery truck on the Bolsa boulevard as he was on his way to school, is reported a s improved and it is thought by attending physicians that it will be possible to save his leg. The member was badly crushed and it was thought at first that amputation would be necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pysden and family and Mrs. Pysden's mother, Mrs. W. Sargent, motored Sunday to Upland, where the Pysdens remained as guests for the day of Mrs. Pysden's brother, Harry Sargent, and family. Mrs. Sargent remained for a longer visit in her son's home.

John Ward, of Bolsa, was one of the members of the U. S. C. football team who received high commendation for his work in the U. S. C.-Washington football game last Saturday. John is preparing to be an athletic coach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Farnsworth spent Sunday in Puente with other members of the El Rodeo club.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, of Newport Beach, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Johnson's father, Elmer Radford.

J. D. Shutt and granddaughter, Miss Lucille Radford, were Sunday dinner guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garcia and family and Mrs. Garcia's father went Saturday to their home at Ventura and were accompanied home on Sunday evening by the mother, who has been visiting in that city.

The former A. Ross residence south of Bolsa has been leased to a family from Fillmore. Mr. Fitch is employed in the Wilson dairy on the Hazard ranch at Midway City.

Members of the Ralph Ross family have been ill with influenza and the six months old baby, who has been confined to bed for many weeks with whooping cough and complications arising from the disease, had a relapse as a result but is now improving again.

Light's Golden Jubilee

Fifty years ago, Thomas A. Edison made the first practical incandescent lamp. That eventful day ushered in a new era of comfort and convenience. We join in commemorating the golden anniversary of the birth of electrical illumination and pay tribute to the man whose inventive genius is reflected in practically every electrical appliance found in our homes.

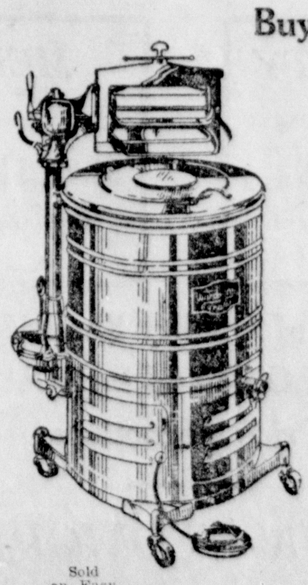

You will want to see the displays in our windows which show a replica of the first "carbon lamp" together with the most unusual and interesting historical display of Ward's contemporaneous growth with that of light and electricity.

GARBAGE BIDS BEFORE BEACH CITY COUNCIL

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 17.—Consideration of contract for collection of garbage and of gas rates were the chief matters before the council last night, with the opening of Wilson street consuming much time in discussion.

Four interested persons had communications before the council on garbage, three of them bids. M. K. Edwards, of Oceanside, and Earl H. Moore, of San Clemente, bid 50 cents a month for residences and $1 to $3 a month for business houses for collection of garbage and waste matter, the latter offering the city $15 a year for the contract in addition. C. E. Price made an offer of $300, $400 and $500 a year for three consecutive years for the garbage, delivered to his ranch in Laguna canyon, but would not undertake collection. T. G. Bird, local man, made na bid, but appeared before the board for information on which to base a bid.

The council finally took the matter under advisement, calling a special meeting on Friday to make a decision.

Roy W. Peacock, coming from the Realty board, asked that the city make an investigation as to whether the $1.25 ready-to-serve charge being made by the Southern Counties Gas company is now valid. Jack Power said it was based on this being the terminal, but that recently the line had been enxtended through the city to communities further south and that the charge is no longer legal. The matter was finally referred to City Attorney Moresby White for investigation.

On the suggestion and motion of William W. Riddell, it was decided t ogo and view Wilson street as a committee of the whole.

The municipal electric sign, a project of the chamber of commerce, was placed before the council in letter, followed orally, by B. Clyde Mackey, who showed a reproduction of the sign contemplated. It would cost about $415, he told the council. Jack Power urged that the council take action on the matter as soon as possible. A council committee of W. W. Riddell and R. D. Lippincott was appointed to confer with the chamber of commerce committee.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Act. 17.—Denald Shirey, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Shirey, of Midway City, has been accepted by Prof. Albers, well known Los Angeles musician, as an advanced pupil. Prof. Albers speaks highly of Donald's prospects as a violinist. The privilege to study under Prof. Albers came through the efforts of his teacher, Mrs. Knight, of Huntington Beach, with whom he has been studying for several years and who is herself a pupil of Prof. Albers.

Mrs. Joseph Warren James left Monday for Coronado where as an officer of the Huntington Beach Eastern Star chapter she goes as one of the two chapter representatives to spend the week in attendance at the state convention of lodges.

The Rev. Arthur Worthy and wife, of Van Nuys, and Lawrence Worthy and son,, of Huntington Beach, were guests Monday in the home of the parents of the Worthy brothers, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Worthy.

The regular weekly executive meeting of the Midway City Chamber of Commerce will be held Friday evening in the King building.

Mrs. May Mansperger who is noble grand of the Aloha Rebekah lodge of Westminster gave a card party Saturday evening in her new Midway City home to start a fund for the securing of the Veteran Rebekah pins.

Twenty-four were present at Mrs. Mansperger's party and in tallying the scores at the conclusion of the games, Mrs. Carl Yost, of Huntington Beach was found to hold high score for women and Mrs. Davies, of Midway City, second high; Carl Yost, of Huntington Beach, first for men, and Will Vail, of Los Angeles, second high score. Prizes were given by the hostess, who served refreshments of Italian delight, coffee, olives and pickles, the card tables having been converted into daintily appointed refreshment tables.

Those present at the Mansperger home were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Yost, of Huntington Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murdy, Miss Iola Murdy and Will Vail, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. William Cozad jr., of Balboa; Mr. and Mrs. Claire Wardlow, of Cypress; Mr. and Mrs. McDaniels, Mrs. Edna Day, Mr. and Mrs. H. Mrs. R. S. Patrick gave a dinner party Sunday in their home observing the birthday anniversaries of her husband's father and sister, Lee Patrick and Miss Alice Patrick, of Los Angeles, whose anniversary dates fall within a few days time. Mrs. Patrick had the dinner table decorated with fern and smilax and the lovely birthday cake which centered it was of snow white with pink candies and candles decorating it.

Covers were laid for eight, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Patrick, Miss Alice Patrick, Miss Gertrude Stratton and Mrs. J. Q. Stratton of Los Angeles; the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Patrick, and their young son, Sammie Lee Patrick.

A family gathering held Sunday in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Woodson in Midway City celebrated the third wedding anniversary of their oldest daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Galloway, of Colton, who with their young son, Normand Eugene Galloway, motored here for the day.

NOT A FILLING STATION

There were so many speakeasies on their street that Mr. and Mrs. Michael Daly, San Francisco, had to post this sign to keep people away from their house. "It certainly was annoying to have people ringing our doorbell and asking for liquor," said Mrs. Daly, as she posted the notice.

STILL IN DARK AGES

CANTON, China, Oct. 17.—Natives here still use ancient methods to determine time. The age-old water clock, consisting of four large copper jars standing on steps one above the other is used. Water in the top jar trickles through each of the other three. It takes exactly 12 hours for the water in the top jar to trickle into the lower one. This clock is 600 years old.

FOX' SUCCESS ATTRIBUTED TO EFFICIENT MEN

No company in the picture business is more in the public eye or in the public prints today than the Fox organization and in looking around for the reason it appears that back of the activities and back of the success of the company lies the sagacity of William Fox himself in the picking of men. If William Fox were to take a tour around the world to be gone for 18 months the affairs of the corporation would continue in a progressive and successful manner.

The reason for this in the production field is Winfield Sheehan, who has developed the west coast studios and production activities to a high point, and has functioned by himself and on his own responsibility under the authority given him by his chief for four years without even having a visit from the head of the corporation to the west coast. The results are evident in the numerous successful productions emenating from the Fox studios.

In the matter of sales, James R. Grainger carries forward under delegated authority and works on his own with the result that the sales organization is at a high pitch of efficiency and is comparable in effectiveness to any of the great sales organizations, not only in this business but in other businesses of the country.

In the matter of finance, Jack Lee, one of the most important and one of the least known among the big men in the picture business, functioning as chief financial officer since the entry of the Fox company into its larger activities, and before, on his own under the deputized authority of William Fox, guides with conservation and soundness the inner finances of the great corporation.

The great theater interests flourish under the definite and active management of John Zanft, who also had the ball thrown to him by his chief with the usual admonition to take it, run and make good with it.

All these four high cards in the Fox deck have demonstrated over a period of years their ability to act on their own initiative in carrying out the general policies laid down by William Fox.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Who wrote the Bible? This is a question that has been agitating thinking men and women for many scores of years. For centuries this question has been answered by both synagogue and the church in a very simple way, not altogether free from superstition. Not until the rise of modern scientific thought, particularly within the last two hundred years, was the true story of the origin of the Scriptures discovered. We are told of this in "Unravelling the Book of Books" by Ernest R. Trattner.

The book begins with a history of Biblical text criticism and goes on to the history of the Bible itself. Without hostility or contentiousness, in a spirit truly reverent, he tells the truth, as far as hitherto ascertained, about the origin and gradual development of the writings that have become sacred to two of the world's great religions. Having described the laborious toil by which a long line of students of many nations finally succeeded in unravelling the various threads that had gone into the weaving of the work known to us as the Pentateuch, he goes on to the other books of the Old Testament, and then to those of the New Testament.

Frank and Fearless

This discussion of the origin and authenticity of the Scriptures is frank and fearless, yet the author takes the position that the Bible has no more to fear from analysis than the mountains have to fear from geology or the stars from astronomy. At a time like the present when the spirit of honest inquiry is abroad, a book like this, which traces the composition of the various parts of the Bible and the textual changes that may be found in different editions, is tremendously important. It is a treasure house of Biblical information and in no way does it seek to lessen the value of the Bible as a fountain of religious inspiration and our safest guide of life.

To the many admirers of Donn Byrne, his personality is fused with the magic charm of Ireland. The land of his birth has a subtle beauty which lives in his novels. In "Ireland: the Rock Whence I Was Hewn," Donn Byrne tells us of this strangely attractive yet so misunderstood country.

In a manner of speaking, this is a summary, a bird's-eye view, of the Ireland which he evoked in his novels so many times. Here he is definitely conducting a tour, but there is nothing of the ordinary guide-book about him. In this book we see all of Ireland. The mysterious loveliness of its countryside is told with a literary charm that shows, as well, a great love for every stick and stone. The sea with its everlasting tale of tragedy, sky, and bog inhabited by fairy folk all tell the tale of a country that has suffered and endured. The mountains and lakes are infused with stories of this intense living.

Sympathetic Friend

The landscape tells the tale of the people who live there. They are a people who make of their unhappy lives, a poetry that puts our smug existence to shame. Donn Byrne sees these people as a sympathetic friend sees and knows them. Here is the speech of Ireland, the inner heart and soul of Ireland. And to the words is added a series of pictures which makes more potent this charm of a people and its country. In and through it all we see and feel the personality of this author, with true poetry in his soul.

Lady Warwick has had an unusually rich and varied life. She says she has enjoyed every minute of it and that enjoyment sparkles on every page of her memoirs, "Life's Ebb and Flow." Perhaps no other woman of her time has been so criticized, blamed, praised, and misunderstood; but no one has ever questioned her beauty, her wit, or her charm.

She reviews her life with its many eventful happenings. To us she imparts the thrill of her first play, when Disraeli took her to see Henry Irving and Ellen Terry in "Romeo and Juliet." The splendor of her marriage to Lord Brooke, afterwards Earl of Warwick, is imparted to these pages. She tells of the royal summons from Queen Victoria to visit Windsor Castle on the honeymoon; of the friendship with Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, which lasted for so many years and which shows Edward's rare personality, his tact, and his gallantry; of the whirl of each London season in its glittering aspect.

Joins Socialist Party

But Lady Warwick was too much interested in the great world to confine herself to any one group of society, however brilliant. To the horror of her conservative friends, she joined the Socialist party, worked hard for the cause, and even turned Easton Lodge into a school for working girls. She came into contact with Robert Blatchford, and one hears the great Socialist leader telling her ladyship in no uncertain terms what he thinks of charity bazaars and Ladies Beautiful. There are absorbing chapters on the growth of Socialism in England, on W. T. Stead, George Bernard Shaw, Joseph Arch and other leaders. Lady Warwick's interests had infinite variety.

With refreshing candor, spiced with wit, and illumined by first-hand observation, Lady Warwick talks of most of the characters and events that have made the social and political history of England during the last three decades. Her interest in life has never flagged. She looks back reminiscently and then turns to the present, welcoming modern ideas and the younger generation. For she believes that the world has progressed.

FLURRY MARKS FIRST SESSION OF TAX GROUPS

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special to The Register)

Sacramento, Oct. 18.—California's Legislative Tax committee has started work on a contemplated revision of the state tax system in the usual flurry of controversy that is apparently an essential part of changes in taxation principles.

One meeting has already been held in San Francisco, where Richard E. Collins, chairman of the Board of Equalization and Director of Finance A. R. Heron disagreed on several fundamentals.

The same sharp line of demarcation that put the board of equalization on one side of the fence and the state administration on the other during the life of the last tax commission is to be continued, judging from this first meeting.

Heron told the present commission that the new 4 per cent net income tax on banks and corporations will require several years before it becomes a success.

Collins urged the commission to scrap the tax, claiming that it is faulty and will never return the revenue it should.

Cases were oil companies are paying but a minute fraction of their former tax were cited by Collins as examples of the practical working of the law which the last legislature passed on the recommendation of the old tax commission. Heron said that disadvantages which accured to these companies this year will not be repeated after two or three years, giving technical reasons for his argument.

Present conditions in the California tax system whereby banks are escaping almost tax-free, were discussed at the meeting. Heron expressed optimism on the eventual outcome of this situation.

The Macallen case in Massachusetts, where the United States supreme court declared that tax exempt securities cannot be included in taxable net income returns, may not apply to California, Heron believes. Although California taxes such income under the new law, it has done so under old statutes for 20 years. Consequently the supreme court cannot charge that the state has suddenly and deliberately started taxing such securities as Massachusetts did, Heron pointed out.

The banks are excluded in this source of income fro mtheir tax returns and this has lowered the state's revenue from banks to its present abnormally low level.

Collins suggested to the commission that they consider a moderate sales tax to aid meeitng expenses of the public school system, which he said is becoming too heavy a burden on the taxpayers.

The next meeting of the commission will be at San Francisco on October 17, when steam, electric and shortline railroad representatives will give their viewpoints on taxation matters.

La Habra Water Rate Hearing Is Set For Monday

LA HABRA, Oct. 18.—A hearing on water rates will be held by the state railroad commission in the city hall at 10 a. m., Monday. Numerous complaints regarding rates charged by the local company have been filed with the commission, it is reported.

WHIPPED, SUES DAD

BUTLER, Mo., Oct. 18.—The outcome of a whipping administered Chloe Ehart, 22, by her father, is a damage suit filed against him by her for $10,000, and the seeking of a divorce by her mother. Sylvester E. Ehart, his daughter charged, "had become fanatical" after a religious revival. On her arrival home after a wiener roast her dad whipped her.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

By DUANE HENNESSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18—And this little girl lived only seven blocks from the movie studio but had to go to New York to crash the gate.

The girl is Dorothy Lee, who is 18 and blonde. The studio is RKO, which used to be FBO. The story is more understandable when read from the beginning.

Dorothy Lee lived only seven blocks from the studio and tried many times to get into pictures, but couldn't. Finally, she got work with a circuit which puts on stage shows in film theaters.

Then, she went to New York and got a job in a show called "Hello, Yourself." Fred Waring, the big band man, had his Pennsylvanians in the show and she came to his notice.

When she was in the chorus she worked her way into a bit in the show, then got a bigger bit to do. It was then she came to Waring's attention. When he made a picture called "Syncoption" for RKO he got Dorothy Lee a part. The studio liked her work and decided to bring her west.

Oh, yes, the studio, which could have had her when she lived only seven blocks away, bought her a railroad ticket to Hollywood.

This is about feet and has nothing to do with talkies, which is what everyone talks about in Hollywood these days.

Jeanette McDonald is the Cinderella of the films. When Travis Benton, creator of Paramount fashions, was designing costumes and shoes for her in "The Vagabond King" he discovered that she wore size 2½ AA slippers.

COMMITTEE'S REASONS FOR URGING FURTHER PROBE OF UPPER DAM SITE SET FORTH

There has been submitted to The Register a series of four papers on the question of the majority report of the committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce which investigated the Prado dam site controversy. These four papers are based on data that was furnished by this committee, and were frankly written by one who believes in that report, and who does not believe in the lower site. He submitted them without granting the privilege of having his name published, and we are printing them because we believe that they are the best condensed statement on behalf of that report which we have seen.

We would be glad to publish anything submitted on the opposite site, and would give equal space and prominence to it.—(Editor.)

During the water bond campaign of last June, proponents of the bonds, in an effort to discredit the upper dam site, stated that if the dam was built at the upper site Riverside county would levy high taxes on the reservoir lands which would be located in that county. While this charge was of small moment in itself, as agricultural revenue from such lands would more than pay the taxes, it was at once refuted as untrue by those who would have the district save seven millions by building at the upper site. Those who had made such a claim then made the fatal mistake of staking their reputations upon its truth. The question as to whether Riverside county could tax the reservoir lands thus became at once a paramount issue, not for its own importance, but because it had become a criterion by which the public could gauge the relative honesty of the bond proponents and opponents.

The question as to whether Riverside county could tax the lands involved was purely a legal one, and from legal authorities was an answer sought by the Associated Committee. Two county attorneys, both involved in the campaign to pass the flood bonds, are to date the sole authorities quoted by those who are still pressing the claim that Riverside county can tax the reservoir lands. The committee has been advised by three authorities that this cannot be done. These authorities are W. G. Irving of Riverside, an attorney well versed in matters of the kind, and two of the leading law firms of Los Angeles, namely: O'Melveney, Tuller and Myers, and Gibson, Dunn and Crutcher.

Furthermore, L. W. Myers of the first named firm wired Attorney General U. S. Webb, asking his opinion on the matter. Mr. Webb in reply wired in part: "...STOP THINK MATTER IS NOT ONE UPON WHICH THIS OFFICE MAY OFFICIALLY PASS BUT HAVE GIVEN QUESTION INVESTIGATION AND AS A RESULT AGREE WITH THE VIEWS IN YOUR OFFICE OPINION RENDERED TO ORANGE COUNTY FLOOD CONTROL DISTRICT STOP..." James G. Scarborough, former Santa Ana attorney, now of Los Angeles, also states such lands cannot be taxed.

Although the state constitution holds that such lands if bought by a city for strictly municipal use could be taxed, the courts have ruled in a number of cases that the lands of state agencies, such as irrigation districts, are untaxable. The above attorneys hold that the Orange County Flood Control district is such a state agency, created by the state legislature to carry out a certain improvement, and with no other powers. Again the preponderence of expert opinion dissipates the objections raised in a vain effort to discredit the upper dam site.

Again We Say—
PLANT COVERCROPS

There isn't any question about their value. There isn't one orange ranch in a hundred, here in Orange County, that is receiving too much Humus. We all know we need more vegetable organics than we are using. Manures and Bean Straw and Alfalfa Hay cost real money—so let's use good cover-crops every year. We all know good cover-crops pay—but somehow we sometimes get careless and—well, we forget to plant.

NOW IS THE TIME

We can still offer you excellent quality Melilotus, Purple Vetch, Bell Beans, Horse Beans, and Burr Clover.

"Shoe Talks"

By "Ed" Busch

Truth in advertising, like in every day selling, is the very backbone and mainstay of our institution. Economy Shoe Stores never misrepresent the quality, the value or the size of the shoe we sell.

When we say we can and do sell better grade and better styled shoes than you can buy elsewhere for the money it is no bragging statement—it is a fact that has constantly been proven to our ever growing circle of friends and satisfied customers.

Understand, we do not sell cheap shoddy shoes. Our shoes are quality shoes of the latest styles, sold at lower prices.

Economy Shoe Stores have been established and maintained, and are growing because "Quality is higher than price."

Sincerely yours,
"ED" BUSCH.

Beautiful hair !

Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard the color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition.

There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately frangranced liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre.

How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "setting" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer.

Danderine quickly dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant.

"I read an ad in the newspaper and I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will recommend this medicine to any woman who is in bad shape like I was. I used to get so tired after a few hours' work that I was even afraid in my own house in the daytime. I didn't care if I lived or died. I have given birth to eight boys and I feel strong right after, since I have taken the Compound."

Mary And Bob To Relate Story Of Broken Romance

Mary and Bob, the traveling representatives of True Story hour, hear from the lips of a radio enthusiast the tale that will be broadcast during True Story hour, at 9 o'clock tonight over the Columbia chain and KHJ.

Jack Hunt ,a wireless operator in the navy during the war, found the girl of his dreams in a little village on the coast of France. Anne, too, loved her sailor beau and the course of true love was running smoothly when one of the pranks of fate, so common during war days, broke up the beautiful romance of the happy couple.

After the war Jack still was frustrated by an unhappy chain of circumstances. It was some years before he was able to communicate with his promised bride. And when he finally found her it was at the altar, wedded to another man!

INJURIES JEOPARDISE DON CHANCES; WARMER LISTED TO PLAY AT OLD POSITION

By "SKY" DUNLAP

Joy and sorrow swept alternately through the Santa Ana junior college football team on the eve of one of its most important games of the season with the Compton Tartars. Out of a long list of injured players, dating from the first of the season, one star who was thought to be out of the game will be able to play while a second will be unable to mix in the scuffle at Compton.

The Dons started the season with high hopes for a championship. The team still looks like a high class machine, but successive injuries have made it a much harder task to win that conference flag, especially so when it is remembered that one of the toughest games of the season is due Saturday and that five and possibly six Dons will not be in the fray.

Warmer In Lineup

The biggest hope for a local victory is the almost sure return of George Warmer, star end and signal-caller. Warmer pulled some tendons in his knee in the Pasadena game last Saturday and was out of suit until yesterday, when he went through a stiff practice. Of course, his leg bothers him to some extent but tight bandages will make it possible for him to go the full four quarters if necessary.

Cook stated definitely that Sammy Griswold, blond guard and center, who was injured in an automobile accident Tuesday night, would not play. John Dugdale, Orville Schuchardt, Leonard Natland and Charles Teas, all quarterbacks, will be unable to get in the fray because of leg injuries.

The rest of the backfield apparently is in good shape. Jack Dutton and "Red" Manderscheid are both dependable fullbacks. Dutton was one of the heroes of the Pasadena tussle which the Dons won, 6 to 0. Wayne Garlock is almost certain to get the call at quarter. Garlock won his spurs, so to speak, in the Pasadena skirmish. He will call signals if Warmer is out of the game at any time. Garlock is developing into a good safety and is also on the sending end of punts and passes. Jack Rimel is another quarterback of ability while Melvin Beatty may move from quarter to halfback if needed. John Keeler also plays this position.

At halfbacks, Baxter Geeting and Beatty are favored for the starting call. Gene Olsen, Franklin Van Meter, Carol Bertolet, Bob Drysdale, Jack Sweetnam, "Kench" Tanaka and Leonard McIntosh are all likely to see some action.

Warmer and Ed Adams will start at ends. Solon Beall and Hal Dunham will be on deck to relieve either one while Nevih Hoy and Crawford Nalle may chip in.

Captain Herald Hylton, already mentioned as a leading candidate for all-conference tackle, will be a bulwark of strength next to Warmer. On the other side of the line, Tim Wallace, Ernie Stump and Frank Miles will hold forth, anyone of which may start the game. At guards, Joe Warner and Bill Crawford will represent Santa Ana with Al Kluthe between them at center. Crawford is one of the best punters in the circuit.

So far this season, the Dons, although not possessing a perfectly unblotched record, have nothing to be ashamed of. In an early game with Chaffey, whom the Dons again meet next week, the Panthers intercepted two passes and captured the tilt, 14 to 6. In the next start, Santa Ana held the powerful U. S. C. freshmen to a scoreless tie in the Coliseum. Taking heart over this achievement, the Dons smothered the heavy Phoenix, Ariz., junior collegians, 56 to 0, and climaxed the situation with a 6 to 0 victory over Pasadena last Saturday in a conference fray.

"Pep" Rally Tonight

Students at the local college are planning to go en masse to Compton Saturday and have organized a large caravan under a police escort. The parade will leave the school at 1 p. m. "Pepper" and school spirit will be aroused tonight at 6:30 when a football rally will be held on the campus. The annual flagpole rush will take place at this time, with the sophs and freshmen battling to decide class supremacy for another year. Picked teams of 25 men each will endeavor to place their respective class flags on the top of a tall pole. After this is completed, a tug-of-war will be enjoyed by the two classes. The program will feature talks by Coach Bill Cook, Captain Hylton and other members of the squad. Yells and songs will be led by the three cheer leaders, Dave Hill, John Wykes and Leslie McDonald.

SHAWKEY HUNTS AS YANKS PICK HIM FOR PILOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. — Bob Shawkey, new manager of the New York Yankees, was hunting moose in the Canadian wilderness today but will return next week to begin a long winter's hunt for ball players to rebuild the team.

Col. Jacob Ruppert made the announcement of Shawkey's selection late yesterday and said Shawkey will be here Tuesday to sign a one-year contract.

Arthur Fletcher, picked by Huggins several years ago as his successor, turned down the job. It is the third time within two years that Fletcher had turned down managerial offers, having declined to manage the Cleveland Indians in 1927 and the Chicago White Sox last July.

Fletcher Spurns Job

After the death of Miller Huggins last month, Col. Ruppert offered the job to Fletcher.

"If it's all the same to you, colonel," Fletcher replied, "I would rather not have the job and the responsibilities. If I can stay as coach, that will suit me better."

The first step in renovating the 1927 and 1928 world champions was the release of Bob Meusel, veteran left fielder, to Cincinnati. Other changes in the Yankees will be made shortly.

Shawkey's selection came as a shock to those who had followed the situation closely. Two years ago he was given his unconditional release when his arm went back on him. After a disappointing year in the minors with Montreal, he returned the past season as coach of the Yankee pitchers.

With Yanks 14 Years

Shawkey served almost 14 seasons as a member of the Yankees' pitching staff. He was in the navy most of 1918. In 1919, his best year, he won 19 games and lost 11 for an average of .633.

Shawkey is 39, and was born in Brookfield, Pa. He now lives in Philadelphia. He is 5 feet, 10 inches in height and weighs about 180.

In presenting Shawkey with his world series ring at a banquet in Montreal in April, 1918, Judge K. M. Landis, referred to him as "the player who is the greatest credit to baseball."

BEST wishes for a successful season was the message Miss Bo-Peep McMillan, 6, conveyed to Captain Hoxie Freeman, Kansas Aggies' six feet 4½ inch tackle, who weighs more than 200 pounds. Bo-Peep's daddy is the famous Bo McMillan, former Centre College star and now Aggie coach.

CHARLEY COBB, LEMON TO TOP TUESDAY SHOW

"Texas Charley" Cobb, sturdy young San Diego welterweight who knocked out Zenaydo Chavez and outpointed Jimmie Rivers, will headline Promoter H. T. Foust's next boxing show at the Orange County Athletic club.

Fresh from three successive knockouts in San Diego main events, Cobb travels here next Tuesday night to test the mettle of the rapidly improving Fullerton schoolboy, Romeo Lemon, who jumped into the front flight several weeks ago by completely outclassing Cobb's stablemate, Al Trulemans, former Far Western A. A. U. champion.

Cobb and Lemon have signed to go eight rounds. The Texan has been promised a substantial guarantee, said to be considerably more than what he received for beating Chavez and Rivers, while Lemon has agreed to fight on percentage. He figures he will be made if he can outscore an opponent of Cobb's prestige.

Louie Silvia and Young Peter Jackson, lightweights, will clash in the six-round semi-final. They fought a hair-raising draw in Santa Ana several weeks ago. Silvia has never lost a match while Jackson had a run of seven straight knockouts before he met Silvia the first time.

Joe Robinson and Eddie Benson, Welters, head the four-round preliminary parade.

Luis Echeneste, Santa Ana bantam, and Solly Smith mix in the second spot. Louie Medina and "Bud" Appleby will open the show.

STANFORD OPPOSES OREGON STATE '11'

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18. — With California in the East and U. S. C. playing a non-conference team interest in Pacific Coast conference football this week-end will center in the Stanford-Oregon State clash at Stanford.

The veteran "Pop" Warner must win from Oregon State and still save as much as possible his squad for the more important game with U. S. C. scheduled for the following Saturday.

Other conference clashes will bring together Washington and Washington State in their annual classic, to be played this year at Pullman, and Oregon and Idaho at Portland.

Last Lunar Grid Game Is Tonight

PASADENA, Oct. 18.—The final night football game of the season in Southern California will be played in the Rose Bowl here tonight when the University of Southern California at Los Angeles meets California Tech.

Coach Bill Spaulding announced that the Bruins were in shape for the fray and that he intends to start his strongest team.

MANY CONTESTS OF IMPORTANCE ON GRID MENU

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—They are going to play off a lot of very indelicate football—low, coarse football, very boorish, indeed, and very good to look at—before sundown tomorrow.

California, for instance, is out to break par for the trans-continental course by playing Pennsylvania at Philadelphia right in the middle of the season, then turning around and going back to Berkeley in time to resume its coast schedule the following Saturday. This one ought to be good.

Out at Lincoln, a Pittsburgh team that is said to be its best since the Warner regime will get itself very much involved with Nebraska, which is no trick at all. The hard part comes when you try to get uninvolved. This one will be good. So will the meeting between Tennessee and Alabama down in old Knoxville. The time may come when they will be paying off with the Southern title on this one.

Harvard Meets Army

As to that, I have it straight from the management, or something, that Harvard and the Army fully intend to be very firm with each other at Cambridge. This ball game, the first big meeting between Eastern teams this year, will be one of the real good ones of the day. There are others almost by the dozens.

Every ranking conference is in for a large afternoon. The Big Ten will sponsor Illinois and Iowa, Michigan and Ohio State, Northwestern and Minnesota. Meantime, Notre Dame will be taking another haymaker at the Big Ten via Wisconsin.

The Southern conference, in addition to the Alabama-Tennessee game, is bringing together Georgia Tech and Florida, the one-three leaders of 1928, and the present sensation, North Carolina with Georgia, the coast conference, with California in the East, enjoys something of a breather, although Stanford has chosen itself no chump in Oregon State. The other meetings out there involve Oregon with Idaho and Washington State with Washington, neither is particularly important.

Brown vs. Yale

The East itself is promising quite a ruction. Exclusive to the California-Pennsylvania and Harvard-Army games, this section is sending Brown, winner over Princeton, against Yale; Princeton against Cornell; Carnegie Tech against W. and J., Dartmouth against Columbia, and Fordham against Holy Cross.

Lafayette versus Bucknell and N. Y. U. versus Penn State are two more stand-out games in the East, while the Navy will play an intersectional contest of slight consequence with Duke.

The best of the intersectional meetings, of course, will be those at Philadelphia and Lincoln. However, another good one couples Indiana with Colgate, which has been trying to get out of the middle west for the last three weeks.

OLIVER SENDS UNDEFEATED ELEVEN IN ACTION; LOCAL TEAM IS SLIGHT FAVORITE

BY GRIDDER

Two primed football teams, keyed to the same high pitch that has made their schools bitter rivals for 15 years, meet on the gridiron again tomorrow afternoon. It will be THE game of the year for Santa Ana and Long Beach high schools, undefeated contenders for the 1929 championship of the Coast Preparatory league and possible challengers for the Southern California interscholastic title as well. They will kickoff at 2:30 on Burcham field, Long Beach, now almost traditional hunting ground for both sides.

Early season scores, which mean little, favor Coach "Tex" Oliver's Santa Anans. The Saints have played four games and wno them all, making 70 points to 7 by their opposition.

Long Beach has had three skirmishes and two of them ended in ties. The Jackrabbit competition, however, has been a bit keener than the Saints'. While Santa Ana was sweetening up on Orange, Monrovia, Whittier and Pasadena, the Jackrabbits were plugging against the best in the City league, Hollywood and Manual Arts, before opening their conference season and running roughshod over Glendale.

Saints Slight Favorites

The general impression is that Santa Ana will win by a small margin if the middle of its line doesn't collapse under the pounding it receives from Ed Davies, a comparatively small but a driving fullback who ripped Glendale's line into shreds last week.

Long Beach has two exceptionally fleet halfbacks in Captain "Red" Franklin and Russell Sweet, both track team sprinters, and they may annoy the green Saint ends, Nuzum and Herren, but Oliver has two of the fastest high school runners in the state in his backfield to stop them if they get by the line of scrimmage. He is much more afraid that Davies will break through his "middle" than that Franklin or Sweet will get loose around end.

The writer believes Santa Ana will win with something to spare if Quarterback Al Reboin goes through the four quarters uninjured and the Santa Ana backfield has learned how to protect itself against forward passes. He believes Long Beach will have no offense to compare with Santa Ana's brilliant running attack built around the sidestepping Reboin and the tremendously fast Norman Paul, and doubts whether the Jackrabbit backs, as fast as they are, can stop the Saints' aerial attack.

Saint Line Strong

Santa Ana's much discussed forwards—Wayne Vance, center; Captain Bruce Tarver and Winfield Martin, guards; "Bud" Hartman and Harry Clayton, tackles, and Lloyd Nuzum and Asa Herren, ends—faltered for a few moments at Pasadena when Fullback Morgan began pile-driving into them but in every game this year they have outcharged and outplayed the

SAINTS PICKED TO REPRESENT LEAGUE

Santa Ana and San Diego have been selected to represent the Coast Preparatory league in the first Southern California interscholastic championship playoffs, set for Saturday, November 8, according to word received today by J. W. Means, principal of Tustin high school, who is Orange county's C. I. F. delegate.

Santa Ana will meet a representative Orange league team. Since Orange and Huntington Beach will clash Armistice day the Saint opponent will be Tustin, Anaheim or Brea-Olinda, it is believed.

San Diego will meet Coronado, uncrowned champion of the Southern league.

The November 8 games will be the first of a series by which the C. I. F. expects to determine a champion this year. Four major and four minor schools will battle for the title after the regular schedules are completed.

600 Tickets On Sale For Saturday Game

For the convenience of Santa Ana football fans, a block of 600 tickets for tomorrow's game at Long Beach between Santa Ana and Long Beach high schools was put on sale at two sporting goods stores here today.

Selling for 50 cents, they were available at Victor Walker's sporting goods store and the T. J. Neal sporting goods store.

Ouch! What a headache!!

Gridder looked terrible last week. He frankly admits it.

But who in the world would have picked Brown to shellack Princeton? Or Chicago to plaster Indiana? Or Georgia to lick Yale. The others he missed were figured to be close, with mistakes quite possible.

The only consolation Gridder gets out of the whole mess is that Santa Ana high school and Santa Ana junior college both won. He nailed the Saints to win, 20 to 6. At one time in the last quarter the score was exactly that, and then Al Reboin went wild and made a liar out of the prognosticator.

Far below his old "batting average," Gridder comes forth with a batch of new selections today. He is still stringing with Santa Ana's teams. He thinks the Saints will beat Long Beach, three touchdowns to one, and that the Dons will win by a narrow margin over Compton.

The old fellow is picking some "long shots" for tomorrow's games and takes a chance for some more floggings but here goes:

INITIAL GAME BUGABOO

Problem of selecting an opponent for the season's first football game is developing into one of alarming proportions, say directors of athletics and graduate managers at the larger universities. The reason is evident. "The so-called little school often proves decidedly disagreeable to the upper strata, particularly in this age of advanced football.

Most coaches in the larger schools regard the ideal type of opening game as one that provides the team a neat practice, a chance to try out all the reserve material and, of course, results in a victory.

Usually the opening game of the bigger school is with a minor college. Likely looking teams hate to take the chance of being defeated.

JULIA LATHROP GRIDDERS ROUT WHITTIER, 60-0

BY JACK PEGUES

Julia Lathrop junior high school yesterday defeated the Whittier State School Class B team, 60 to 0, in the first football game the Spartans have played on their hole field this season.

The South Main streeters made their first touchdown in the first three minutes of play on a 35-yard run by Shaffer who altogether scored seven touchdowns during the afternoon, most of them on runs from 20 to 40 yards.

Julia Lathrop made another touchdown during the first quarter and then Coach Ferris Scott replaced his first string linemen and Conrad took Kidder's place in the backfield. The substitutes did even better by scoring four times in the second period.

The Santa Ana eleven, still undefeated, has now totaled 126 points as against 15 by its opposition. In six games the Santa Ana high school Class "Bees" are the only ones to have crossed the Lathrop goal, Orange having made two points on a safety.

The lineup:

SAINTS FACE BEACH ELEVEN TOMORROW

line opposite them. They are better than they are getting credit for being. For five minutes of inferiority this year they can show two hours' superiority. That is more than Long Beach newspapermen say their line has done. So despite its inexperience, the Saint forwards may actually outplay the Long Beach line which is but three pounds heavier a man on an average.

Santa Ana will take the field with a slight pull in the weights. Their team average will be approximately 171, Long Beach's 167. The Saint line averages nealy 170 while the Jackrabbit forwards scale a little more than 172. Santa Ana's backfield is much heavier than Long Beach's, however, the local quartet averaging 172 as against 158 for the Hares.

Oliver Is Worried

Coach Oliver was obviously worried today as he prepared to send his proteges through a final brushing up on their own and Long Beach plays.

"Long Beach will be our toughest game," he said. "If we beat the Jackrabbits I believe we shall beat San Diego and win the league."

The skipper's disposition was not improved when he glanced over his "hospital" reports which showed Al Reboin suffering from a sore ankle, Don Crumley ill and not even in school, Captain Bruce Tarver's shoulder still out of commission, Bill Donahue sniffling with a bad cold, Hartman nursing a bruised thumb and Herren complaining of a trick ankle.

Oliver said something about Reboin not playing but he was not taken seriously. Almost everybody, including the coach, knows Reboin is the Saint sparkplug and that "as Reboin goes so goes the team."

If there was any change in the usual starting eleven it was believed that it would be at guard where Marvin Johnston, a bulky little southpaw baseball star, has been pressing Martin to the limit.

Another possible replacement was "Toy" Blower, the sophomore end, who was said to have an excellent chance of staying at right end in place of Nuzum who did not show up for practice one day this week.

Class C elevens of Santa Ana and Long Beach will collide in a curtain-raiser at 12:45 o'clock.

LONG BEACH ON EDGE FOR SAINT TILT

LONG BEACH, Oct. 18.—A battering line assault—power thrusts aimed at the very heart of the Santa Ana front wall—may be Long Beach Poly's trump card against "Tex" Oliver's Saints tomorrow on Burcham field in a second round Coast league tussle that will boost or crush the championship hopes of both elevens. The Class C squads of both schools clash at 12:45 in the opener.

With Ed Davies and Ralph Bradley ready to deliver the most potent punches on the ground attack, Coach Orian Landreth is hopeful that their plunging may offset the broken field rambling expected from Al Reboin and Norman Paul of Santa Ana. It may be a battle between the spins, double and triple reverses and belated bucks of Santa Ana against the straight football of Long Beach.

Long Beach has always been able to at least tie the Saints. In 1927 the teams battled to a 6-6 tie and in 1928 to a scoreless deadlock.

Little news could be gleaned from the Jackrabbit camp yesterday. Bradley will probably start at fullback with Captain Franklin and Cecil Storey at the halves and Bob Parke at quarter.

Saxon Elliott and Bob Fuhrer will hold down the wing posts with Bovee and Tarry at tackles. Lewis Wilcox and Wayne Rapp at guards and Kordover Vance at center complete the lineup.

CLASS C TEAMS CLASH IN PRELIMINARY

Swinging into action for the first time this year in a league game, Coach Clyde Cook's Class C football men will play a curtain-raiser to the Long Beach-Santa Ana varsity skirmish at Long Beach tomorrow. The preliminary will begin at 12:45.

The "Little Saints" haven't done anything very startling this year but Cook has done a good job of molding a team out of the green material that faced him when school opened. His boys have held their own with the junior high teams in Santa Ana and "lightles" from other surrounding cities. Last year, the Saints were nosed out 6 to 0 largely because they had no reserves.

The starting lineup for Cook's outfit probably will be Lawrence and A. Clark, ends; Huntoon and Purinton, tackles; Laub and Kistinger, guards, and Holderman, center. In the backfield, Meyer is quarterback, Cochems and Wright play halfbacks and Wright is fullback. Other players likely to see action are Cartwright and Denio, ends; Harding and Wasson, tackles; Lacker and Allen, guards; B. Clark, center; and Brown and Sussdorf, backs.

DONS CRIPPLED FOR GAME AT COMPTON

tine have charge of the program. Blanchard Beatty, all around athletic star, will captain the sophomores and Gene Edwards will lead the freshmen.

COMPTON EXPECTS TOUGH GAME WITH DONS

COMPTON, Oct. 18.—The Southern California junior college gridiron championship may be at stake here tomorrow afternoon when Coach Eddie Suggett's Tartars face the powerful Dons from Santa Ana in the second round of conference play.

Santa Ana is tied with Long Beach and Glendale for league leadership, having upset Pasadena last week by a 6-0 score. Compton, however, drew a bye and rumbled over the Oxy Freshmen 20-0 in a non-conference game. The Hub City eleven has been steadily improving since its 14-0 defeat to the Trojan Frosh two weeks ago.

With a collection of former prep school stars, including White and Whalen of Huntington Park, Yancey, Smith and McKee of Compton and Andrus from Texas, the Tartars present a fast and shifty backfield that is bound to give any team in the circuit plenty of trouble.

Coach Bill Cook has a couple of versatile backs in Manderscheid and Garlock, and some good linemen in Crawford, Kluthe, Hylton and Warner. With a shift combining the styles of "Pop" Warner and Howard Jones, the Dons should be a hard outfit to stop.

SLATER STICKS TO GRID

Duke Slater, giant negro tackle who gained fame on the University of Iowa eleven, is still playing football. Slater began 16 years ago in high school and after leaving Iowa he stepped into the professional grid game. He's a lawyer in the off seasons.

GUERERRO FAVORITE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—Joe Guererro, lightweight champion of Mexico, was favored today to win over Joe Marcus, of Portland, when they meet here tonight in a scheduled 10-round main event.

TROJANS MEET OXY IN L. A. TOMORROW

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—The University of Southern California will play Occidental college tomorrow in a game which holds little danger for the Trojans. Coach Howard Jones plans to experiment a bit in preparation for Stanford the following week and probably will use Don Moses, former fullback, as inside halfback part of the time. The inside half does the blocking under Jones' system.

SONNENBERG WINS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champ of Boston, threw Dr. Karl Sarpolis, Cincinnati, here last night, taking two straight falls—the first in 38 minutes and the second in 10 minutes, 4 seconds.

ORTEGA ROAD PROJECT HAS MEEK SUPPORT

That B. B. Meek, director of public works in California, looks with favor on the Ortega highway project, which will link Orange and Riverside counties on a southern route, was revealed today. At the same time it also was announced that representatives of the two counties will confer next Wednesday in regard to formation of a joint highway district.

Supervisor George Jeffrey, of Irvine, and Chairman F. C. Jameson, of the Riverside county board of supervisors, will meet in the latter's Corona home next Wednesday and will select a third member of their committee on the highway project. This member may reside in either county but may not be a member of either board of supervisors.

Jameson, who recently returned from a trip to Sacramento, where he conferred with Meek, revealed that the director of public works looks with favor on the Ortega highway. Although Jameson declined to reveal details of his conference with Meek, his attitude was optimistic. Formation of the joint highway district will make the two counties eligible to apply for state assistance in financing the roadway.

RUSSIA OPERATES TRACTOR STATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—So-called intervillage machinery-tractor stations have been established in the U.S.S.R. (Russia) for large-scale mechanized farming of peasants' lands, reports the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture.

The station is a central machinery and power base, serving a large number of small peasant land holders. It is equipped with tractors and other modern agricultural machinery, all standardized, and has well-equipped repair shops. It contracts with peasants to do all the field work that can be mechanized, including threshing, for a share of the crop. The peasants supply the labor, and where special skill is needed, as in the case of tractor operators, special training is provided by the station, which also supplies all technical supervision and assistance and is responsible for repair work. Contracts made by the station usually embrace all or most of the land belonging to a particular village which is worked as a unit.

Bobcat Held Of Economic Value

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 19.—The bobcat, killer of young deer, calves, sheep and fowl, may be declared to have a perfect right to existence in California, according to Charles G. Poole, connected with the state department of agriculture.

"Offsetting some of their depredation," Poole said, "these animales show an economic value it at least two ways. First, they kill great numbers of mice, rats, rabbits, ground squirrels and other noxious vermin. Second, there is the economic value of the pelt which has a considerable range on the market.

"The ratio between the favorable and unfavorable activities of the bobcats must determine whether they should be completely exterminated, only controlled, or permitted to remain entirely unmolested.

WORLD'S LONELIEST OUTPOST

Here are pictures that you seldom see, for they were taken at the loneliest outpost of the habitable world, almost never visted by photographers. Only once a year does a British ship drop anchor off the group of tiny islands known as Tristan da Cunha, 1500 miles southwest of St. Helena, in the south Atlantic. Above are shown typical homes on the only inhabited island, an extinct volcano 8500 feet high. At the right are women and children making their first visit aboard a steamer. The inhabitants, of whom there now are about 140, are descended from a white garrison placed on the island during the captivity of Napoleon on St. Helena. They are entirely self-supporting, from their farms and cattle.

Poly Hi And Jaysee Notes

Similar to the special course in library practice which is given each semester in Santa Ana high school are the tours of the high school print shop, which have been planned by Thomas E. Williams, printing instructor. Williams plans to begin the survey trips in the near future, taking the various study hall classes through the shop and explaining some of the important essentials of printing. The course will not be an accredited one, it was announced.

An interesting newsreel, furnished through the courtesy of Walker's West End theater, was the outstanding feature of the Santa Ana high school assembly today. A technical reel, concerning the care of the telephone, also was shown.

"The Blue Danube" and "To a Wild Rose" were sung by the High School Girls' Glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Frances Hunt Beeson, and the Misses Mildred Daley, Jean Peacock and Julia Thorndike led the students in a series of school football songs.

An enthusiastic pep talk previous to the game with Long Beach, tomorrow, was given by Coach "Bill" Foote, at today's high school assembly. Foote stressed the need for student support at the game. Yells were given following the speech. The assembly was in charge of Minor Whitford, commissioner of publications.

Members of the Santa Ana Junior College Honor society for the spring semester of this year were announced today. They are Curtiss Bowman, Elien Flaws, Edwin Gerhardt, Louis Hanson, Arthur Gross, Neal Harlow, James Hodgman, Ray Lindman, Lyles McNairy, Abbott Mason, Calvert Norland, Paul Mueller, W. H. Roach, Kenneth Warren, Harold Watson, Lawson Watkins, Ralph White, and the Misses Florence Caverly, Eunice Bragg, Josephine Ball, Beth Cosner, Mary Ford, Dorothy Harmon, Phyllis Jamison, Elizabeth Mateer, Helen Mayes, Pauline Neddermeyer, Corinne Nelson, Justina Palmer, Margaret Richardson, Isabelle Siracusa, Mary Elizabeth Smith, Ruth Tantlinger, Virginia Thomas, Janet Wilson and Mary Louise Wallace.

Sweet Potato Weighs Over 11 Pounds

Excavating sweet potatoes is somewhat of an engineering problem on the L. D. Lowaly ranch, on Katella road, it was discovered today when the rancher encountered a potato in his patch weighing 11 pounds and six ounces.

It was termed one of the biggest sweet spuds ever raised in this county and Lowaly placed his find in the office of C. E. Dessery, in the Fox Broadway theater building, in Santa Ana.

He said he had raised sweet potatoes on the same piece of ground for three years but never before has he unearthed a potato of such proportions.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF EDISON TOLD TO LIONS CLUB

L. S. Peterman, power specialist with the Southern California Edison company, in Long Beach, was the speaker at the meeting, yesterday, of the Santa Ana Lions club, when Mayor Frank L. Purinton presided as program chairman.

The meeting was devoted to tribute to Thomas A. Edison, the "wizard of Menlo Park," N. J., and Peterman recounted incidents in the boyhood life of Edison that had bearing on his later life. Recapitulation of the achievements of Edison in the electrical field was made by the speaker.

Peterman was introduced by Rodney Bacon, assistant district superintendent of the company here, as the "human light."

"The Miracle Man," written by George Cohen, in honor of Edison and for the "Golden Light Jubilee," was sung by Elmer Heidt.

Announcement was made that the club would hold a stag party on November 7, the place to be designated by D. H. Betten, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

NOT ONE WEAK LINK NOTED IN CAST OF SEASON'S FIRST COMMUNITY PLAY OFFERING

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

"I must dree my own weird—Oh Ginevra, do we dree the weird or weird the dree? I always forget," cried "Amy Grey" in "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire," charming Barrie comedy with which Santa Ana Community Players last night, in the Fox-Spurgeon theater, launched their tenth annual season. But, however she decided the important question, Amy and her companions gave as enjoyable an entertainment as has been seen on a Santa Ana stage and an entertainment that was shared by an unusually large first-night audience, which entered into the spirit of the play and showed every evidence of complete enjoyment of its subtle humor.

For the subtlety of a Barrie play makes it delightful reading but a little difficult to "put across the footlights." Yet there could be no doubt but that last night's audience thoroughly appreciated all the fine touches of humor and was in complete communion with the cast and its director, Ernest Crozier Phillips.

Lots of Ability

It was not a large cast but it certainly made up in ability all that it lacked in numbers. The adult roles were taken by four Players whose work is thoroughly familiar to all Santa Ana theatergoers. Mona Summers Smith brought to the part of "Alice Grey" all the finesse and charm that her admirers have learned to expect from her and gave it a peculiar little elfin touch of humor that was altogether delightful. It was a difficult role to play, requiring a deft touch to avoid artificiality on one hand and bathos on the other. Needless to say, Mrs. Smith provided that deftness and gave a very charming picture, indeed, of a very charming mother.

R. R. Miller's return to the Players' organization brought him back also to the possibilities for important parts and his appearance last night as "Colonel Grey" was his first since returning to Santa Ana to live. His audience found his voice just as rich and musical, his understanding of dramatic values as clear and his stage presence as excellent as ever. His "Colonel Grey" was a thoroughly nice piece of work.

"Stephen Rollo" provided the triangle feature so much dreaded by the romantic young "Amy" and was capably presented by "Garry" Garroway, a newcomer last year to the ranks of the Community Players, and whose role in the current play offered opportunity for the exercise of another of his talents, when he sang an all-too-short little love song.

Miss Cornell Priceless

Miss Edith Cornell is one of the priceless members of an organization, who will fit into any place and give her time and talents as enthusiastically to "walking on" as to a leading character role. So it was in "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire," where, as the nurse, she had only a few lines and two or three appearances, yet made every word and every action count.

There remained then the "youngsters" of the cast, players who have taken part in junior high and high school productions, but, with the exception of two of their number, have had no more ambitious work, yet who won delighted attention from the audience and virtually "made" the play. Of these, the chief role was given to Clara Kate Owens, youthful star of "Seventh Heaven," who, in "Amy Grey," had an entirely differet type to portray and who did it with an artistry that promises to make her one of the outstanding members of the organization. Her work showed

TRIUMPHS AGAIN

Having established a reputation for consistently good dramatic work with the Santa Ana Community Players' association, Mona Summers Smith, in the title role of "Alice - Sit - By - the - Fire," gained new laurels in the Players' production which had its premiere last night, in the Fox - Spurgeon theater, where it will be repeated again tonight and tomorrow night.

GAUER TELLS OF CONVENTION IN ATLANTIC CITY

ANAHEIM, Oct. 18.—The first meeting of the year for the Orange County Teachers' and Principals' association was attended by 310 members and guests of the organization, the meeting opening with a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Elks clubhouse last night. W. O. Mendenhall, principal of the Katella school, newly elected president, presided.

M. A. Gauer, superintendent of the Anaheim city schools, gave an interesting report of his trip to Atlantic City in company with 150 California delegates to the N. E. A. convention.

Among the places visited en route, Gauer said, was the Tuskeegee institute, where the delegates were greeted by the son of Booker T. Washington and where 4000 Negro students are being trained. Thirty-five vocations are taught in the school, the speaker said.

The Rev. George Tinsley of the First Christian church of Fullerton, gave an inspirational talk in which he called attention to the greatest events in religious education. The speaker stressed the fact that there should be no definite line drawn between physical, mental and spiritual education and that there should be whole hearted co-operation between the church and the school.

A musical program included violin duets by Miss Florence Eyaman and Miss Lelia Brown, who were accompanied by Miss Fern Heim. All are from Anaheim. A mixed quartet composed of Mrs. Evelyn Knipe, Mrs. Martha Ross, Glenn Merrill and C. A. Patterson gave several numbers.

At a short business session an executive committee was appointed for the coming year. The committee includes W. O. Mendenhall, president; Mrs. Ethel Evans, of Garden Grove, vice president; Miss M. Smith, of Huntington Beach, secretary; W. H. Bonney, of Anaheim, treasurer, and a representative of each high school district as follows: S. R. Fitz, of Garden Grove; C. D. Baldwin, of Huntington Beach; Miss Nellie Lands, of San Juan Capistrano; Miss Ethel Mack, of Fullerton; Miss Dorothea Harvey, of Anaheim; J. D. Hayes, of Orange; Miss Marie Beck, of Brea, and E. K. Bingham, of Tustin.

Cut flowers for the decorations were presented by Rudolph Boysen, superintendent of the Anaheam city park.

Chapter DI, P. E. O., Is Entertained at Dinner

Delightful in every detail was the al fresco dinner enjoyed last night by members of Chapter DI, P. E. O., and their husbands. The charming affair was held at Mrs. F. E. Coulter's home on South Birch street and it was planned by Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. W. H. Harrison, Mrs. Italy Lee, Miss Mabel Larrick, Mrs. Elizabeth Dana and Miss Lulu Minter.

Tables were arranged in the attractive garden and light was provided by pretty Japanese lanterns. Piece de resistance of the delicious menu were barbecued steaks prepared by Duffy of the Elks' club.

After dinner new members of the BILs which includes husbands of DI members were initiated into the order with a great deal of merriment. The new members were Cood Adams and Clarence Gustlin.

Nat Neff who always presides over these affairs was garbed in a white satin robe with long train of red velvet. On his head was a silver crown and in his hand a rhinestone scepter. His comments on various phases of the initiation kept the guests amused throughout the ceremony.

An entertaining program occupied the remaining hours when Clarence Gustlin presented several brilliant piano solos and Elmer Heidt sang some charming selections. John Tessmann entertained his audience with a number of slight of hand tricks, many of which he had learned while in Egypt.

Chapter DI will meet again Monday for a two o'clock tea at the home of Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, North Main street.

Indian Welfare Subject Of Discussion at Board Meeting

Visiting or field nurses on the Indian reservations in Southern California will be appointed immediately if the resolution adopted by the executive board of the Southern district, California Federation of Women's Clubs, when it met at Hemet and presented later as a petition to the honorable commissioner of Indian affairs has the desired effect.

The recent death of Rebecca Salazar has brought to the attention of thinking people of Southern California the deplorable and unsanitary health and living conditions of the Sycuan Indians on their reservation in San Diego county, and it is the belief that many more cases of tuberculosis must be existing among these Indians because of said conditions and because of the close association of those on the reservation with Rebecca Salazar during her lingering illness, it was pointed out at the meeting.

Resolution Adopted

A second resolution adopted by the board petitions the Honorable Herbert Hoover, president of the United States, as follows:

Calling to his attention the necessity for a closer co-operation needed for the commercial development of Southern California with our neighboring country of Mexico, and the need of strict enforcement of prohibition laws and the protection of human life and morals by those who cross the international border, and asking that a separate United States custom district be formed of the territory including San Diego and Imperial counties, establishing residence headquarters for the customs collector in the city of San Diego.

Copies of the resolution were forwarded as well to the secretary of the treasury, Senators Johnson and Shortridge, Congressman Phil D. Swing and to others whose assistance in bringing about the desired change was needed.

The discussion of meeting expenses of district chairmen of clubs ended when it was decided that clubs meet the situation themselves, the president, Mrs. Marcus Robbins, suggesting that clubs get together for visits from states chairmen in order to conserve expenses.

District Convention

Plans for the district convention in San Bernardino, November 19 to 22 were discussed, with "The Power of Organized Womanhood" as the theme of the convention. Play day will be omitted and there will be no outstanding conferences of breakfasts, although informal gatherings that will not interfere with the convention may be held. Reservations that will not interfere with the convention may be held. Reservations must be made one week in advance with Mrs. J. Harold Barnum, 440 Seventeenth street, San Bernardino.

An interesting discussion and open forum was held by Mrs. S. W. Stanley, of Santa Ana and Mrs. F. D. Jacobs, members of the reorganization council.

Stating that there is one rat in the United States for each man, woman and child, and that each rat works one-half cent's worth of damage a day, Dr. Olive Cordua, state chairman of public health, brought a vital message on "Roden Control as a Cleanliness Measure." The Southern district went on record at this meeting as approving the matter of rodent control being taken over by the state of California.

Singing by Mrs. Lewis Morgan and Mrs. J. H. Remington, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. I. Newman, was enjoyed at the opening of the afternoon session, as well as piano selections by Mrs. Newman.

Turkey Bulletin Published By U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct 18.—Success in turkey raising is largely a question of proper management, says the U. S. department of agriculture. The fundamental factors essential to success are described by Dr. M. A. Jull and A. R. Lee of the bureau of animal industry in farmers' bulletin 1409-F, just published by the department.

Avoidance of parasites and prevention of disease should be the first aim of every turkey raiser, these specialists say. Of the infectious diseases common to turkeys, blackhead is the most destructive, but it can be controlled by proper sanitation. Blackhead occasionally affects adult turkeys, but it occurs principally among young turkeys between the ages of six weeks and four months. Keeping the quarters strictly sanitary and burning all dead birds will help prevent spread of the disease.

FIND FERTILIZER

In a search for nitrogen fertilizer, the U. S. department of agriculture has found a suitable one in cyanamid, used extensively in Europe and which, the department says, could be adopted satisfactorily in America. The chemical consists of coal, coke, limestone, together with nitrogen drawn from the air during the production process.

I think every woman is familiar with the set of three vegetable slicers, at least with one of them, used for grating carrots or shredding cabbage.

I cannot give trade names in the Mixing Bowl but you will have no difficulty in getting this set in any kitchenware store.

Their use is legion . . . carrot is evenly grated for jellied salad . . . cabbage is ready for a garnish or for slaw in a moment's time . . . vegetables are evenly prepared for vegetable soup . . . recalcitrant cheese calms down and spreads itself evenly over the top of cheese dishes . . . while lemon and orange peel are grated to the queen's taste by this handy utensil.

I am drawing your attention to it because I am using it in the preparation of the salad described today.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Cabbage and Apple Salad

2 cups shredded cabbage
2 canned pimientos, minced
2 red-skinned apples
1-4 cup pecan meats
Creamy mayonnaise
Lettuce heart leaves.

This is the type of salad one must make on the fly! Have all ingredients thoroughly chilled before preparation is started, and first of all get ready the mayonnaise.

Take a heavy mayonnaise, thin it with quite a bit of lemon juice then add sweet cream and whip until it thickens up again. The action of the acid lemon juice on the cream does the thickening. Taste and season with plenty of paprika and a little more salt perhaps.

Take the head of lettuce apart, wash the heart leaves and shake dry in a sieve. Line each plate with them in cup-shape. Now we are ready to mix the salad—

Quarter the head of cabbage and shred fine two cupsful, sprinkle with a tiny bit of salt and over the cabbage shred the red-skinned apple—unpeeled. And the minced pimiento and a small quantity of mayonnaise, take two forks and lift and turn the salad until well coated with mayonnaise, taking care that your movements are light and the salad kept fluffy.

Lift portions into the lettuce cups, put a spoonful of mayonnaise over each salad, a dash of paprika, and serve at once before it has a chance to get warm and wilt.

Vitamins and protective foods are here in abundance as well as real food values. The salad will serve four or more and the individual calorie value is 300, most of which is the mayonnaise.

When "Bob and Betty lunch at home" they demand real food, and need it. Home school lunches should be sufficiently hearty to carry a boy or girl through the rest of the day's lessons and play.

This leaflet and its recipes are offered free this week on receipt from you of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We seem to have a corner on apples this week, but I can not resist telling you about a delicious apple dessert, made in pie form but a thousand times easier. This recipe will be the subject discussed tomorrow.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Mrs. Sarah Millin, the novelist, who has been living in South Africa for a number of years recently arrived in New York, and the first thing she wanted to see was the "new woman you hear so much about."

I'm glad I did not have the job of showing her around, and producing a new woman for her. It would be like the old days when out-of-towners came to New York and demanded immediately to be taken to Greenwich Village dens—and the best you could do was a tame sort of a tea room, lighted with candles instead of electricity and waited upon by girls in smocks rather than boys in white jackets.

You are never quite able to produce these innovations that are so glibly written about. A definite thing like the Woolworth Building or Grant's Tomb is different. You can lead a sightseer up to that and it is up to her whether she likes it or not—there it is.

FIND THE NEW WOMAN

But to be asked to produce a new woman—what an order. Whom would you produce, and what would there be to indicate that she was different from her mother or her grandmother?

And suppose you introduce her to a woman judge or senator, the woman of importance is sure to say something like this—"You know, in spite of my position, I am just an old-fashioned woman who believes that the woman who serves her country best is the good mother," etc.

Personally, I don't know whether Mrs. Millin has a great revelation or a flop in store for her. But if she finds anyone who answers to her ideal of the typical "new woman," I wish she would name her. It would be interesting to know how and what her reaction is.

HER LUXURIES

I can't produce the new woman, off hand, but I can produce some of the luxuries provided for her, that indicate that she loves luxury and convenience.

One of the most fascinating of the tiny shops on expensive Park Avenue is a little bath shop in which every possible luxury for the bath room is represented—all the most amazing soaps, bath salts, bath mats, crystal and jade boxes, and colored bottles that are a joy there. No other room is considered here.

Another shop that fascinates me is a pillow shop, that handles nothing but pillows, in every shape, size, color and of any material from chiffon to fur.

STYLES IN BOXING

Another specializes entirely on boxes, from the smallest of boxes just large enough to hold stamps, to cretonne hat boxes and boxes as big as trunks, and nothing to put in them.

But nothing seems more of a gesture to the modern feminine than these closet shops, that make the closet an ensemble of beauty rather than a chamber of horrors—one that you can't shut the door on fast enough.

In them you will find transparent covers for your frocks, boxes for your hats, shoes, and gloves, attractive covers that are models of fantasy. They will outfit your closet in satin or taffeta, or in chintz or art paper, according to your desires. Perfecting the clothes closet as they have today means that the last frontier in comfortable living has been closed.

The new woman, whoever she is, knows how to live.

Does Modern Girl Want Kindness?

Sometimes I Think They Are BUT Sometimes I Think They Aren't

By VELVA G. DARLING

She may act hard-boiled, that girl of yours. She may look wise and speak cynically. But just try a little KINDNESS with her, boy friend, a little of the common, garden variety of human sympathy and understanding, instead of your continual flow of wise-cracks, and watch her RESPOND! Many an apparently grown up young lady with lip rouge and a job, hides a yearning little-girl heart. BENEATH her modern self-sufficiency and debonaire behavior she HUNGERS for a bit of simple kindness. Styles in "What The Nice Girl Will Say and Do" change every five or ten years. Sometimes she is expected to be a shy little shrinking violet waiting blushingly for Prince Charming to come along. Other times she is supposed to be an independent young Amazon to whom nobody can tell anything! But underneath it all, she is just the same funny little girl that she was when she was six years old, running around with two braided little pigtails sticking out behind—and drinking up kindness from an adoring mother and father and friends and neighbors like young plants drink up sunshine Try a little kindness with that wise-cracking modern girl, and watch the result. Like a certain automobile engine, it improves with use!

But on the other hand——you DO want the other side of the question, don't you—a modern girl married a man, a modern man, I suppose. And yesterday he won a divorce from her. The letter which procured his divorce is one which his young wife wrote to her aunt and which says, in part, "If a woman could go through life on KINDNESS and not NEED attention and love, life with Cecil would be perfect—he has been wonderfully kind to me. The inevitable result of all this has followed. Last winter I met a man who was as lonely as I was and we came to care deeply for each other." So it was just too bad for Cecil and his eternal kindliness! Just as there is such a thing as being INSPIRED by kindness, there is also possible a condition in which one human being can SMOTHER and kill with too much kindness.

Sometimes I think the best definition of the happy and successful person is he who is never UNKIND except INTENTIONALLY. No individual lives who doesn't at some time or other need a sudden slap on the cheek, or a quick cutting word or a good swift kick. And if the person you love most on earth is the one to give it to you, it will only deepen your love for him. And YET I repeat and repeat and repeat, as the saying goes, if you want to influence or advise any self-sufficient, cynical, modern young thing, use KINDNESS! It is the hair by which you can lead the elephant—and the ONLY hair, I might add.

IN 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he treated many cases of constipation. He soon saw the harm in common purges and began to seek something better. Out of his experience was born a famous prescription now in wide use.

This prescription was written thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. Children like its pleasant taste. Older people like it because it doesn't gripe or cause discomfort. It is a mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; thoroughly effective for the most robust of men. Stimulates the normal muscular action of the bowels. So its use will not become a habit. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, biliousness, feverishness or no energy, poor appetite, etc. are relieved by Dr. Caldwell's prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. All drug stores have the generous bottles. The product never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original formula. So you can take it with confidence or give it to the youngest child.

COLMAN PICTURE TO CLOSE RUN TONIGHT

Final showings of "Bulldog Drummond," United Artists all-talking production, featuring Ronald Colman, will be made in the Fox West Coast theater today. The show opened there last Monday and is the first all-talking feature to be brought to Santa Ana for five days.

Thrilling, mysterious, "Bulldog Drummond" is conceded to be one of the best mystery pictures of the year. The role of Bulldog Drummond is taken by Colman.

The story is based on a young English officer who seeks excitement. He gets it, plenty of it, but he enjoys it.

The feminine lead is played by Joan Bennett, while other prominent actors and actresses in the film are Montagu Love, Lilyan Tashman and Claude Allister.

"Side Street" comes to the West Coast theater tomorrow for two days.

An Aesop's Fable with sound; "Ukulele Ike," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer skit, and a Fox Movietone newsreel complete the bill.

GARAGE FOR DOGS

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The latest fad for Milady in dear old Lunnon is a dog garage. When the stylish matron wants to go shopping with her dog, she takes him to a canine club. A uniformed attendant takes the animal, places it in a stall and watches over it like a hawk all day, feeding it regularly and pacifying it if it longs for its mistress. The club is not exclusive—mongrels are housed right in with bluebloods.

STYLES WILL WANE

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Present women fashions will wane and in their places will come more conservative clothes, is the opinion of Sheik Seif bin Suleiman, of the royal line of Muscat, Oman and Zanzibar. "If women are to be equal in the world of affairs with men. I understand that they need dress to give them freedom and little trouble," he says. "But the present fashion

'WOOLWORTH GIRL' NOW AT BROADWAY

"The Girl From Woolworths" is the title of the First National-Vitaphone all-talking production which opened today in the Fox-Broadway theater, following "Why Bring That Up," which closed a four-day record run in the showhouse last night.

Snappy new song hits are featured in the new picture, with Alice White in the principal role. Miss White sings most of the new hits, including "Someone," "You Baby Me, I'll Baby You" and "Crying For Love."

Smashing comedy, with a sweet romance interwoven with a unique plot, "The Girl From Woolworth's" is the story of a girl who, when she meets a youth, poses as an actress. He tells her he is a traveling man. She learns he is a brakeman on a subway and he finds she is a clerk in the 5 and 10 store.

Jack Delaney has the male lead and other popular actors in the cast are Wheeler Oakman, Rita Flynn and Gladden James.

Aside from the feature, a Pathe talking comedy, "Dancing Around;" a Mickey Mouse cartoon, with sound, and a Fox Movietone newsreel are on the bill.

To the Citrus Growers of Orange County

The Mutual Orange Distributors wishes to express its appreciation to all who again have enabled it to render to the citrus growers of California that efficient and personal co-operative service which has characterized its twenty-three years of successful operation.

The Mutual Orange Distributors is proud of its accomplishments because it knows that it has served you honestly and well; because it has played the game squarely; and above all because it has held inviolate the confidence and trust of the hundreds of growers who have co-operated with it in behalf of the citrus industry of this great State. Our growth is built on that open, frank mutual understanding.

We believe that from our first contact with the growers, i. e., when growers are first being solicited to affiliate with this co-operative marketing organization—the growers then and henceforth are entitled to receive from us all of the facts necessary or convenient to enable them to arrive at an intelligent decision. They deserve our fullest confidence and always get it. Such always has been our policy and it shall continue so to be in the future. Moreover, we are always ready and willing to permit the closest inspection of our records by any association or grower who is bonafidely desirous of obtaining the services of our organization. We guarantee to present all of the data, so that a fair, impartial judgment may be rendered.

We recognize the fact that some growers have neither the time nor the opportunity to thoroughly analyze statements relative to price returns. You realize that figures may be made to tell queer stories. Hence, we issue no field propaganda which might, for example, compare a sale of one of our best brands made in a favorable market on a favorable day in the East with an inferior, rival brand of fruit sold across the continent in an unfavorable market. Comparisons of sales in different markets on different days, in our judgment, are unfair and misleading. They have no part in the sincere, constructive activities of such a co-operative as the Mutual Orange Distributors. Attempting to influence growers by using propaganda which while perhaps composed of facts, yet is open to misconstruction and apt to mislead, we believe is to violate their trust and confidence. Especially so when one realizes that the marketing group is looked to by the grower in utmost faith for trustworthy information. To trade on that faith and confidence is NOT the policy of the Mutual Orange Distributors. We believe in giving facts to the growers; in respecting their confidence in us.

In comparing returns to determine the relative success of competing co-operatives during any one season, may we suggest that you keep several vital facts in mind?

FIRST: The comparison should be on a fair and sound basis. In order to prevent misunderstanding, it is suggested that such comparisons be made on the pound for pound, or loose box basis, for all fruit grown by the growers making the comparison. Comparisons on a packed box basis are unsatisfactory because the average per packed box gives no indication of the percentage of pack-out, nor does it reveal to you the amount of the growers' fruit which was neither shipped nor marketed. By dividing your total NET returns for any one season by the total number of pounds or loose boxes of fruit produced by you during that season you are able to arrive at your NET return per pound or per loose box. Insist that the grower with whom you make your comparisons arrive at his NET return by the same method. The results of such a comparison will reveal to you the comparative efficiency of your co-operative and its ability to distribute and market for you all of your marketable fruit. For after all is said and done, the citrus grower is in business to sell what he spends time, energy and money to produce, namely, the maximum of marketable fruit.

SECOND: Get all of the facts! Partial facts are subject to misinterpretation. Insist on knowing and getting all information necessary for a definite decision. Should a grower affiliated with another marketing group ask you to compare returns with him, the surest way to obtain an impartial and worthwhile comparison is by inspecting the original sales records yourself; and a genuinely co-operative selling organization should be happy to extend that privilege to you.

We are calling these matters to the attention of our friends because we feel that by so doing we are rendering them a worthwhile service. At the same time we acknowledge our appreciation to those who have labored with us to serve California growers.

Our organization is friendly, and small enough to enable us to give you personal attention. Our officials are always happy to discuss your problems with you and will welcome your visit.

WAR REACTION DESCRIBED IN PLACENTIA TALK

PLACENTIA, Oct. 18.—America's "half-pagan civilization," aftermath of the World war, the dangerous possibilities of its future and the reaction of the individual to it were brought to the attention of the women of the Round Table club of Placentia by the Rev. Graham C. Hunter, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Fullerton, at the regular meeting of the club yesterday.

The subject of the Rev. Mr. Hunter's address was "Education for the Good Life and Some of Its Implications." In his speech he declared that the years preceding 1912 were the golden age of American life.

The result of the war was that the world was set back 200 years, while in some parts of Europe civilization is entirely gone, he declared.

The Rev. Mr. Hunter has been an emissary in foreign lands and has a first hand knowledge of underground politics both at home and abroad. The prediction was made that big business would try to force down the standard of living in preparation for the consolidation of capital.

"Capitalistic selfishness and immorality are already having their influence in lowering the moral standard of the nation, bringing with it a cynical attitude," he said. The reaction of the individual is a feeling of desperation, a feeling that the individual struggle for the betterment of conditions can have no effect. This attitude is wrong, for the forces which stand for idealism have a tremendous responsibility and only by individual effort can the fight be carried on—a fight which will be ended only in bloodshed."

Several books were named by the Rev. Mr. Hunter as showing the tendency of modern civilization. They were "Finding the Trail of Life," by Dr. Rufus Jones, showing the influence of home life on childhood; "What is Christian Education," by George A. Cole, a protest against educating children to be conformists; "Middletown," by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lang, a study of city life; and "Spiritual Education."

The musical program which preceded Dr. Hunter's message was given by Henry Roth, of Fullerton, violinist, 13 years of age. Accompanied by Mrs. Farley at the piano, he played "Serenade" by Drdla and "Ave Maria," by Gounod and an encore.

Committees were appointed at the business meeting to take charge of the program October 23, which will be a Hallowe'en party for the associate members. On entertainment are Mrs. Sam Newnes, Mrs. Herbert Sullivan, Mrs. A. Pierotti, Mrs. Arthur Staley, Mrs. H. P. Bender, Mrs. W. J. Travers and Miss Cuff; decorations are in charge of Mrs. J. W. Bennis, Mrs. Lewis Edwardson, Mrs. Parry, Mrs. Haiber, Mrs. L. T. Gillilan, Mrs. Elmer Hochstein and Mrs. J. R. Wallace; refreshments, Mrs. Newnes, Mrs. Fred Cline, Mrs. Thomas Taylor, Mrs. Grover C. Murdick, Mrs. C. E. Lee, Mrs. E. K. Kirby and Mrs. T. L. McFadden.

AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

CHAPTER XLI

Helen went up the stairs on reluctant feet. She dreaded this talk with Eva, for there was nothing she could say to her that would carry hope to the unhappy girl.

Brent was a scoundrel—that was all there was to the matter. But Helen knew that love cannot be torn out of the heart by the roots. It must die a lingering death when it perishes.

She found Eva quiet, lying with a dampened towel on her forehead. The odor of witchhazel came faintly to Helen's nostrils as she leaned over the bed and took one of Eva's hands.

"Sit down—here,' Eva said and moved to make room for Helen beside here.

"How do you feel?" Helen asked.

Eva closed her eyes and shook her head. "Poor mother," she whispered. Then, louder: "Oh, Helen, how awful it was for her! I iddn't know what I was doing. In here with..with that stuff and mother pleading outside my door. I don't know how I could have done such a thing."

"Thank God you didn't really do it, dear," Helen said.

Eva's eyes flashed open and Helen drew back from sight of the misery in their depths.

"But I want to die! I don't want to live!" Eva cried.

"None of us do, at times," Helen answered, speaking very gently; 'but we don't quit when we think of those who will suffer for our act. You see, Eva darling, what it would mean to your mother—and Bob—if you gave way to your despair."

"Yes, I know, I know," Eva moaned; "but what am I to do?"

"You don't think any man is worth the heartbreak of your entire family, do you?" Helen pressed.

"No, no, they're too good. They've always been too good to me."

"Then show them now that you appreciate their love. Try to forget Leonard Brent. He's no more worth your thought than a..than a viper, Eva."

Eva looked at her despairingly. "That has never mattered very much to women, has it?" she asked. "I love him, and I can't believe that he didn't care at all for me. Oh, I know I can't have him," she wailed abruptly; "but don't tell me that it's all because he is a liar and a cheat. There must be some other reason."

Helen's cheeks flushed uncomfortably as she answered that there might be another girl.

Eva's expression grew accusing though she did not mean it to.

"Was it you?" she asked, and then added quickly: "Bob thought it was."

Helen hesitated a long moment before answering. Eva's evidence of painful suspenses brought the truth from her at last.

"Yes," she admitted, "I was engaged to him, Eva. But he did not love me. He can't love anyone. He isn't capable of it. He's the most selfish—"

"Then it was your money?" Eva interrupted.

Helen regarded her in complete surprise. Strangely, she thought, this had never occurred to her. Her money! Of course!

"I think so,' she cried. "He would be just that vile."

"Perhaps," Eva said, "he needs a great deal of money, Helen."

She had found this explanation of his conduct less difficult to bear than the thought that he cared more for another girl than he did for her. And her complete obsession with her passion for Brent was driving her to his defense.

"Don't be a fool," Helen retorted a bit impatiently. "He has enough money. Only greed could make him want to marry for more—greed and a heart like a block of ice."

"You seem to hate him" Eva remarked, and the thought at the back of her mind was that Helen too must have suffered through Brent.

"Not on my own account," Helen hastened to assure her, sensing, perhaps, what Eva was thinking. "But I shall always hate him for what he has done to you, Eva."

"Then you do not love him?" Eva's voice was filled with profound relief.

Helen said no in unmistakably negative accents. Eva grasped her hands and murmured an expression of thankfulness.

"Can't we talk about something else?" Helen urged. "Wouldn't you like to hear about Bob and me, Eva?"

She had not intended to bring her newly recovered happiness to Eva's attention at this time but suddenly she was sickened of speaking of Brent. She wanted to brush him aside, put him out of her own life and Eva's too.

"Have you made up?" Eva asked, heartening a little over the possibility of happiness coming to her dearly beloved brother.

"Made up?" Helen echoed. "We've made up so tight that nothing can come between us again."

"I'm glad," Eva said simply.

Helen leaned over and kissed her, drawn by the wistful smile that hovered on her quivering lips.

"You must let yourself be happy too, dear," she said. "Think of your music now, and some day a real love will come to you. That sounds like empty comfort, I know, but it's true, if only you can believe it."

"I must see Leonard again," Eva shocked her by declaring.

"Oh no!"

"I must."

Helen sat stiffly upright. "Why?" she demanded, but Eva had no answer that she cared, or dared, to give.

"To tell him you're through with him?" Helen suggested hopefully.

Still Eva did not answer. Helen was seized with a thought that stirred her to sharp utterance.

"Surely you are not going to throw yourself at him?" she cried. "Why, Eva, dear, don't you realize that if he'd wanted you.."

"You..there was you,' Eva said very low.

"Eva, please," Helen begged. "Don't you see, dear, that if it isn't me it will be someone else who can bring him what he wants?"

"He loves me, I know he loves me," Eva cried wildly. "He couldn't have lied so terribly to me."

Helen lost a great deal of her patience. "Now see here," she exclaimed, "you aren't going to have anything more to do with Leonard Brent. Bob will kill him. He has made a fool of you, Eva, but that was because you are sweet and good. He couldn't have done it to a harder-hearted girl. That's the bitterness of it. If you'd been thinking only of yourself you could'nt have become interested in a man like Leonard—you'd have judged him by yourself. As it is, you see good in even the worst people. That may be because you are so clever, so talented, dear, that you can't recognize evil—perhaps it is genius. But, oh, Eva, please, whatever it is, Bob and I are going to help you now."

"I must see him," Eva persisted.

"No," Helen protested. "Let me see him for you. I will tell him whatever you wish me to say. Bob will be furious if you go to him."

Eva remained set in her determination. "Don't tell Bob," she pleaded. "It would only cause trouble, and I'm going to see Leonard whatever happens. I must give him a chance to explain."

"Eva," Helen said soberly, "why must you be like this? You were ready to give up your life—wasn't it because you knew Brent has deceived you? Nothing has changed that. What can you hope for now?"

Eva sat up higher on her pillows. "I will tell you," she conceded. "I couldn't bear the thought that he was going to marry you, Helen. I knew I should hate you, in spite of all that you have done for me. I didn't want to live, hating you and without Leonard's love."

"Oh my dear," Helen buried her face in her hands, but she could not hold back her sobs.

"If I see him, and tell him that I know about his engagement to you and that you are really going to marry Bob," Eva said breathlessly, "he may..he may.."

Helen lifted her head. The expression of her eyes stopped Eva from further words.

"Would you marry him after all this?" she asked scornfully.

Eva turned away.

A wave of helplessness swept over Helen. "I'm afraid," she said, "that you must find out for yourself how contemptible, how despicable, Leonard is."

She got up to go. Eva did not attempt to detain her. "Please send mama to me," she said and Helen nodded in silent assent.

Back with Bob she was profoundly affected by the strain of knowing that Eva might yet bring serious trouble upon herself and them.

"I'm tired," she said when Mrs. Ennis had gone upstairs. "Do you mind letting me go now, Bob? Eva doesn't need me, and I've something to do at home."

"My darling, I'll always mind letting you go," Bob smiled at her. "But I'll have to leave too, I'm no playboy, you know."

His eyes had ceased to smile with his lips. Helen knew by their seriousness that he meant to convey the thought to her that he would not depend upon her money for a living.

She lifted her lips for his kiss, thankful that he did not make an issue of that point at this particular moment. She wanted to forget herself and hi mand think only of Eva—to try to find a way to help her.

She drove back home alone, and on the way she reached a decision in regard to Leonard Brent. If everything else failed and she could not induce Eva to go away—to Italy to study, or ot travel for a while wherever her fancy took her—she would buy Brent off.

Her lips curled in disdain as she rejected the thought that he might prefer Eva to money.

At home she went straight to the telephone and called his apartment. His Japanese servant answered and she said, peremptorily, that she must speak to Mr. Brent.

He did not keep her waiting long. "I want to see you about something very important," she asid. "At once. Will you come up to Bramblewood?"

"As soon as possible," Brent assured her, and hung up.

"Well," he mused as he dressed, "I think we've come to the showdown."

$125,000 WILL BE SPENT FOR IMPROVEMENTS

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 18.—A $123,000 street improvement project is planned by the city council. The council has directed its city engineer to start work immediately on estimates for the construction of paved roads, lighting and other incidentals to the project. With the completion of this project plans will be laid for the further expenditure of more than the same amount of money on other street improvements.

Plans call for the paving of the state highway from the north entrance of the city to a distance south of about two miles to a width of 56 feet, lighting state highway with ornamental lights for the same distance, straightening highway at north entrance of village, erection of two miles of ornamental lights on streets from state highway to ocean and back.

When this work is completed it is planned to pave the rest of the state highway through the town, also continuing the ornamental lights and to pave and light Avenida Del Mar from highway to ocean and do the same to Valencia.

The contract for lighting Esplanade at the state highway to the ocean and back to circle the graded hotel site has been awarded to the Pacific Engineering and Construction company for $10,075.

Matich Brothers have been awarded the contract to straighten the curve at the north entrance of the city at a cost of $8,872. This work will start immediately.

The state highway will be paved from curb to curb from the Beach club to about three blocks south of where the San Clemente Clinic and hospital now stands. It at present is paved a width of 20 feet. Engineer Ayer estimates that the job, including the lighting system will cost $105,000. Lights of artistic design will be placed approximately every 200 feet.

Work on the new improvements will be started as soon as present sewer and gas main construction in the city is completed.

150 Secretaries To Attend Meet In San Clemente

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 18.—All roads running south to the border or north from the border lead to San Clemente, is the notice sent out by Capt. H. H. Hammer, vice president of the chamber of commerce, in bidding members of the Commercial Secretaries of Southern California to attend the session here October 26.

More than 150 secretaries will invade the village, according to Hammer. Swimming, fishing, tennis, horseback riding and baseball will be on the program. At noon a lunch will be served at Travaglini's Cafe San Clemente. Before the day is over the secretaries will inspect the San Clemente golf course, the first nine holes of which will soon be open for play, and the clubhouse now under construction.

BEACH LIBRARY OCCUPYING NEW CITY QUARTERS

SEAL BEACH, Oct. 18. — The Seal Beach library is now comfortably housed in its new quarters in the city hall. Mrs. M. C. Spinner, librarian, has been busy all week moving the boxes of books which have been packed in boxes at the old city hall for the past two months and arranging them in the commodious shelves that line the walls of the library room. The library occupies the entire north end of the main floor of the new city hall. All the modern conveniences in the way of shelves, cupboards and drawers have been built into the well lighted and veltilated room.

The library was organized in 1922 by a group of public spirited citizens, and has been located upstairs in the old city hall. The late M. C. Spinner, husband of the librarian, was one of the men who helped establish the library seven years ago.

The library has grown from a few books loaned and contributed by citizens to its present 1200 volumes. Now that the library has shelving space to accommodate more books, Miss Livingstone, the county librarian is bringing over a great many more.

There is talk of petitioning the council to keep the library open every week day and evenings. Up until the present time it has been opened only a few hours on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. With the increasing number of students attending high school, it would be a great advantage to them and their parents if the library could be open evenings in order that they might use the reference books in preparing their lessons, it was declared. As it now is, the pupils are compelled to go to Long Beach for the use of reference books.

ANAHEIM C. C. IS COMPLETING FROLIC PLANS

ANAHEIM, Oct. 18.—Arrangements are going forward for staging the sixth Hallowe'en parade and frolic here and it is expected that more than 30,000 persons will be present for the event.

The frolic is to be more elaborate than those of previous years, it was said. Inquiries are being received daily at the chamber of commerce office regarding the event.

The parade will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock from Kroger street and the signal is to be given by the city light and power plant. All entries in the parade are to be in their division by 7 o'clock.

Rules governing the parade provide that all floats must stress the Hallowe'en motif and that the idea of merchandising must be kept in the background as far as possible. All automobiles entered in the parade must be covered with at least 50 per cent Hallowe'en decorations. Those marching in the parade must be in costume with the exception of members of musical organizations wishing to march. Signs may be placed on cars and floats. Those on cars may be 6 by 24 inches and those on floats 24 by 48 inches.

Attractive prizes are to be offered for floats and costumes. The prize list includes the most beautiful costume worn by a woman, the most comical costume worn by a woman, best looking costume worn by a man, most comical costume worn by a man, best looking costume worn by boy, most comical costume worn by boy, most beautiful costume worn by a girl, most comical costume worn by a girl, most beautiful float, most comical float, best decorated car and most comical car, most beautiful mounted entry, most comical stunt in parade, best band, best orchestra.

Three prizes will be awarded for the best decorated show windows, which will be judged October 30 between 6 and 9 o'clock.

Prizes for out-of-town entrants will include the best decorated car, the most comical car, the most beautiful float, the most comical float, the best mounted entrants.

Central American mountain coffees » »

A luxury taste!

Why is it impossible to duplicate the exquisite, true coffee characteristic of famed Folger-Flavor? Nature herself answers through the hidden taste-values she makes an exclusive part of choice coffees from the fertile volcanic highlands of Central America. Blending and roasting, alone, cannot give you the flavor which Nature has already provided in the carefully selected coffees.

THIS TEST PRAISED FOR ITS FAIRNESS

Get Folger's Coffee from your grocer today. Drink it tomorrow morning. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. Then decide which you like best. If, for any reason, you do not choose Folger's, your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We will pay him. That's fair, isn't it?

Drink enough milk—
eat enough milk desserts

YOU can't have your full share of vitality without milk, and the children can't grow without it. A quart a day for children, a pint a day for grown-ups—so you serve the tall, cool glassfuls.

Then if you are ingenious, you stir a little milk over a fire and make delicious custard . . . you put ice cream on your menu . . . you whip up a delicious chocolate drink at times. Condensed milk has no equal for making smooth, delicious custards and puddings.

Some time try Chocolate Froth. This takes a level teaspoon of sugar, mixed in the bottom of the glass with 1½ teaspoons of cocoa and a few drops of milk, till smooth. Then add a few drops of flavor, fill the glass to the brim with milk, and shake the whole delightful drink in a jar or shaker.

The sugar blends the chocolate and milk flavors—just as it blends the flavors of other combinations of healthful foods. It is an ideal flavor itself—the best-liked in all desserts. Use sugar to induce your family to take their full portion of milk, cereals and fruits. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.—Adv.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The wee woodpecker pecked away. It seemed to him like so much play. His pointed bill made tapping sounds and tree bark flew in air. To watch him one would know that he would after while, peck through the tree. The Tinymites were so surprised they did nothing but stare.

Then suddenly, brave Scouty said: "Say Tinymites, I really dread to think what soon will happen if that tree trunk's pecked in two. This is an outrage. Yes, siree. A silly trick that should be. We ought to stop that woodpecker, but gee, what can de do?"

"I'll shout to him and maybe he will fly away when he hears me," said Clowny. But the shouting didn't do one bit of good. Then Coppy said: "The Weeones there are getting quite an awful scare. If they are toppled with the tree it will not be so good."

For quite a spell the bunch stood still. Then Carpy cried, "I've had my fill of all this crazy business. I am going to find a stone. I'll open up that fresh bird's eyes and shortly make him realize that he will be much safer if he lets that tree alone!"

"Oh, no!" cried Clowny. "Don't do that. You'd better let that plan fall flat. The stone you throw might hit the little Weeones in the tree. Let's send one of the shoes up high and have it sail 'round in the sky. The Weeones then might climb aboard. Let's try, and we shall see."

So Coppy kicked one big shoe loose and said, "We'll now put you to use. Go up and get the Weeones. Bring them safely to the ground." The shoe sailed off in spirits high and soon was circling in the sky. It found the lanky tree stump and went 'round and 'round and 'round.

(The big tree falls to earth in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example: to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

HEAL to CURE—Today you try to HEAL and CURE your golf faults. Try and shoot this hole in par seven.

FIRST COMMUNITY PLAY GETS PRAISE

a decided flare for drama and its chief charm was that it never lapsed a moment, no matter what the situation.

Young Harnois Makes Hit

As her young brother, "Cosmo Grey," an English military school student, young Duncan Harnois was priceless and made the audience unanimous in agreeing with one enthusiastic onlooker who declared, "I'd like to steal him!" "Ginevra Dunbar," as played by Florence Brownridge, was a loyal friend, quite as romantic as the capable "Amy," and whose ideas of life, founded on her play-going, furthered the workings of the plot. "Richardson," the little maid servant, played by Agnes McKinstry, was a minor role, but showed Miss McKinstry's skill at character work as being very marked for so youthful a Player. The remaining part of a maid was taken by Dora Sautter, who appeared for the first time in a Community Players' production.

"Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire," having so pleased a first-night audience, promises to attract record crowds at the two remaining performances in the Fox-Spurgeon theater, where the play will close tomorrow night.

Ernest Crozier Phillips, the organization's first director, but who has not served in that capacity for several seasons, returned for but this one play and the November and February productions will be directed by Marian Helm Williams, with Miss Edith Cornell to direct the final play of the season, to be given in April. A Booth Tarkington play is under consideration for the next production and tryouts will be held at an early date.

of the season. The result was that Wesleyan was cast off and Wittenberg substituted.

Ohio State's team won handily from Wittenberg a year ago and copped the opener this year. However, the going was just twice as tough as it was for the Buckeyes in 1928. There was a petty squabble this season. And now it looks like State is looking for a softer foe for the 1930 season.

PIRATES NEEDED HOMERS

An essential factor in the make-up of every pennant winner is one or two home-run hitters, believes Jewel Ens, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. And take it from Ens, the Pirates are to have a couple of fence-busters before another campaign rolls around.

The Pirates wound up the 1929 season with 88 victories and 65 losses, second place in the National league. A home-run punch in their batting order might have given them the needed victories to top the Chicago Cubs, whose highly-press-agented "murderers' row" of Cuyler, Hornsby, Wilson and Stephenson was credited with snatching several games from the fire.

The records show the Phillies, Cubs and Giants each with more than 130 home runs, twice as many as the Pirate hitters amassed. Only the Reds and Braves trailed the Corsairs.

USURP BABE'S GLORY

There was a time when Babe Ruth was king of the cleanup hitters. Now we find Lou Gehrig of the Babe's own team grabbing a place in the spotlight. Wilson and Hornsby of the Cubs; Bottomley and Hafey of the Cards; Simmons and Foxx of the Athletics; Heilmann and Alexander of the Tigers; Klein, O'Doul and Hurst of the Phillies, and Ott and Terry of the Giants are almost as proficient at the art of propelling baseballs out of major league parks as are the Yankee twins.

Pie Traynor, third baseman, batted in the Pirate cleanup position and, while he maintained an average of well over .350, his list of bingles included only four home runs. Quite a difference from the 0's and 40's compiled by Ruth, Gehrig, Wilson, Hornsby, Foxx and Klein.

Any youthful player who can promise 25 or 30 circuit blows for the 1930 season will find a place waiting for him on the Pirate roster.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Moving steadily upward, the bond market picked up activity in the dealings today. Gains ranged to a point in the general list while some of the convertibles were up more than 2 points.

Railroad issues generally were higher. Some profit taking came into Missouri Pacific 5½s, sending them down a point, but other Missouri Pacific securities were strong as were New Haven 4½s, Frisco 4½s and Southern Railway 4½s of 1969.

Texas Corporation 5s were especially active in the oil group at higher prices and other oil issues moved into higher ground. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s were bid up and transactions generally displayed a strong undertone.

A feature of the foreign section was a decline of 22 points in Brazilian 5½s of 1927. These bonds were feeling the pinch of the coffee difficulties in Brazil. However, word from London today stated that a new coffee loan had been arranged and that brought up the price of Brazilian securities there. Other foreign loans wer steady as were U S government issues.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By ELMER Z. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Moving over a wide range with many issues going into new low ground, the stock market today presented a highly irregular appearance. At times the entire list was forced down, losses in a few issues extending over 8 points. Then rallies followed only to be obliterated again with further heavy selling.

United States Steel was among the first to rally on each cycle. Late in teh day it was above 219, compared with its previous close of 218½. Other representative industrials were not as fortunate. Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Union Carbide, Montgomery Ward and a number of others declined sharply and failed to rally.

Railroad shares went down with the industrials, although the oils, another group tipped for a good rally, held well after early sharp gains had been chalked up. Utilities were weak all day as were the radio shares, airplane stocks and social issues like Intl Combustion. The latter went to a new low and its preferred stock followed.

Crosley Radio, Kolster Radio, Bendix Aviation and Curtiss Wright all made new lows while wide declines were registered in other shares of the radio and aviation groups, incidentally both these groups had been among the strongest in the bull market of a year ago.

The unsettlement today resulted mainly from the rise of $88,000,000 in brokerage loans announced after the close yesterday. Traders had been expecting a decrease and that accounted for the recovery toward the close yesterday.

You Too Can Own a PACKARD

A Constantly increasing number of people are buying rebuilt Packard Cars in preference to new cars of the same price and there are six good sound reasons for this preference.

FIRST, perhaps is the fact that the used car was originally more carefully and better made through higher standards of precision and inspection in the factory which produced it.

SECOND, the used car was designed and built with greater thought to the ideal requirements of size, comfort and appearance.

THIRD, because of its original relative importance as an investment, the Packard car in the hands of the original owner was well cared for, both in driving and in its maintenance.

FOURTH, the really good things of this world are built with an enduring style. Used Packards have not been affected by a rapidly fluctuating mode.

FIFTH, because it is in good taste and its every line bears the hall mark of its makers, there is the same pride of possession for the second or even the third owner of the Packard car that there was for its original purchaser.

SIXTH, the man who buys a new car of the better type seldom exhausts its usefulness. In a great number of cases he is a man who enjoys new things and has the financial ability to exercise this enjoyment in his motor cars. The buyer of the used car is profiting at his expense. He is obtaining a great store of desirable unused miles at a real bargain.

Our stock of used c ars include several reconditione d Packards

MODERN EDUCATION

California's state superintendent of public instruction, Vierling Kersey, is a firm believer in "practical education." According to a recent newspaper report, he believes that Latin and Greek are dead languages and should be left resting in peace. His stand will bring despair to parents who want to give a professional or cultural education to their children which requires one or both of these languages. Their vision is usually beyond the ken of the youngsters until the latter have reached a point in their education where it is too late, at least involves too much time, for them to turn back and take up the Latin or Greek which they find is required for the career they finally come to view as highly desirable.

The youngsters are fairly well agreed, even without the statement of Mr. Kersey, that parents are a bit old-fashioned in their ideas about what should be studied and what should not be studied.

But they certainly are not in a position to realize the value of making contact through study in the original of the Latin and Greek writers, with these two fine though ancient cultures. Their study presents one of the most reliable means of developing a consciousness of better values than material things.

It is well to recognize these new developments toward American culture which the Superintendent of Public Instruction points out: the essence of American democracy, the new sciences, the "new vocabulary, commerce and how to buy on the installment plan," and doubtless to pay instructors for teaching them but we should not lose sight of the fact that even a democracy needs a few outstanding thinkers and scholars to become pioneers of thought. The training for the scholar certainly comes from familiarity with great thinkers of the past as well as the present.

In addition to studying the native equipment of the children it might be well for school men such as Mr. Kersey to encourage the idea of making contacts with the parents of a child on a basis of equality rather than patronage with the aim of learning the parents' ideas for the child's future and the possible facilities for realization of a really rare scholastic ambition. With the practical education of the school working at cross-purposes to the classical ideas of the parents, the child suffers by drifting between the two, departing as far from his parents' ideas as he possibly can, with the encouragement of the school men who are overbalanced toward the "new vocabulary" and lessons in buying on the installment plan.

Every child whose parents think him a genius is not, of course, a genius but it is gratifying to observe how far into the realm of thought persistence and proper training will carry a normal student. There has been a tendency to become so interested in the poor little youngster whose mother or father wanted to make a musician out of him though he would have made an excellent mechanic that we are doubtless making mechanics out of some really excellent musicians, or literary geniuses, or scholars, or scientists.

THE EFFECTS OF FEAR

A New York medical specialist asserts that when stocks on the New York Exchange go down diabetes goes up. Chemical reactions take place in the body as a result of emotions, thoughts, and particularly fear. This is a fact that is popularly known. We have heard of hair turning gray in a night because of some terrific scare. We know that when the mind is weighted with a great problem or a great grief the physical system immediately feels the effects of it. It has been said that a mother who becomes angry transmits the physical effects of it to her nursing babe. It has even been stated that life could be prolonged to an indefinite number of years could men be freed entirely from the effects of worry and fear. It is the lurking within us of the primitive fear that betrays our ancestry.

While this fact has become common knowledge it was not until very recently that men have been taking heed of it. The number of books that have been written on nervous ailments and their causes, on fear and its physical effects, is evidence that what was known but did not come to consciousness in us is coming to be recognized. As a result more men and women will control their thoughts and emotions. Fears will be analyzed to see whether they are simply born of illusions and misapprehensions or are actually real. The result of it all will be a healthier race.

Thus is preventive medicine coming to take the place of the curative method. There will always be need for the physician who will be called upon to cure frayed nerves or debilitated bodies. But more and more the preventive method will come into vogue. After all, there is a good deal of good reasoning behind the Chinese custom which employs the doctor all the time, paying him when the patient keeps well, and ceasing to pay him when the patient is ill.

A MONUMENT TO CHARACTER

Last night was celebrated in Santa Ana, in fact in cities all over California, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Bank of Italy. Several hundred diners gathered in Saint Ann's Inn and partook of a sumptuous banquet, and listened to the story of the small beginnings, remarkable growth, and final statewide and even national development of this banking institution.

It has been said that every institution is but the "lengthened shadow of a man," and this truth is well illustrated in the growth of this bank. Ideas and principles in the abstract have very little potency. When embodied in a human being, clothed with flesh and blood, set upon two feet, with ambition and determination, that idea is bound to develop and find believers and doers in the world.

The Bank of Italy had its beginning in the brains and imagination of some Italian fruit dealers in the city of San Francisco. These men, however, were not ordinary men and were not ordinary fruit dealers. They saw around them needs, and they felt within them the power of possibility. They proceeded to form a bank, to give the service to their own people, in their own locality, in their own city, that they saw was not being furnished, and which they believed a bank ought to furnish. With that idea and with high ideals of service, of honor and integrity, they organized a bank.

The story of its growth, of the confidence which it created, and developed, due to the character of its men and its service is almost like a tale from the Arabian Knights. It was the first bank to re-establish itself and offer service to its customers following the earthquake disaster.

From that time on it grew in public confidence and in business resources marvelously. It naturally encountered opposition from various sources, some opposing because of innate conservatism, some possibly because of business competition, some from a prejudice. But in each case whatever might develop to hinder or obstruct, the vision and ambition of the founder of the bank and the genius of those with whom he had surrounded himself, over-came all opposition. Every legal and administrative difficulty in the pathway for the union of the forces was finally removed.

The bank has had a remarkable growth, reaching the stupendous figures of $326,509,405 of resources in round numbers in 1924, and $851,705,810 in 1929, a gain of 160 per cent in five years.

What we desire to emphasize and congratulate the Bank of Italy on at this auspicious moment in its history is the recognition that this development and growth are due to inherent principles in manhood, due to personality. It is a monument and also a reminder.

Mass Cooking Still to Be Improved

Fresno Morning Republican

We have been so engaged in discussions about "differences" in taste that we are apt, at times, to remember that there are standards of tastes and that these standards can be shamefully departed from.

We observe that some persons "like" one thing, and some like another.

We get to classifying tastes as high or low or broad, as common or selected.

There are these differences. People who cater to the tastes of others—and who do not in this day of division of labor?—must know that there must be variety in pleasing a general patronage.

But the machine age is so hard upon us that we forget, in failing to please "all" tastes, that we are frequently failing to please "any" taste.

Particularly in cooking.

The production of food has reached a high art. Quantity has been wonderful. And nature has cared, for the most part, to set a standard of quality.

But nature does not cook.

Furthermore, we as a people, are rapidly getting out of the habit of cooking.

We delegate our cooking to factories.

Or to hotels and restaurants.

These factories and hotels and restaurants produce food in quantity. Some of this cooking is done well. Some of it is done badly.

The art of cooking well in quantity is still an unexplored art.

Some cooking in quantity preserves the delicate aromas on which much of the tastefulness of food depends. Some mass cocking utterly loses the qualities that preserve appetite.

If appetite were merely a matter of eating more, the bad effect of poor cooking would not matter. The appetite that has to be tempted to eat too much, need not be worried about.

But there are super-qualities of appetite that nourishment needs.

These are of critical importance.

Much of the mass food that is not "tasty" is not nourishing.

It lacks the natural strengths that make it worth while as food.

Mass cooking, of course, will be a coming art. Men will devise ways to preserve and to cook, so that the native values will be presented to the patron who buys a can of greens or a package of baked meats or pastry that comes in a box. There are many foods that reach this ideal already. But by no means all.

The Social War

Pasadena Star-News

That social war in Washington, arising over the dispute as to the placing of Mrs. Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice-President Curtis, at official dinners, is becoming utterly ridiculous, so far as the country's reaction is concerned. This may be of importance in the social and diplomatic life of Washington. But to the people outside of the national capital the controversy, paraded in the newspapers, seems unbecoming, trivial and verging on the vulgar. In a democratic country, what matters it where a woman of ability, grace and charm sits? The American woman of the talents and charm of Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth, is an uncrowned queen in her own right and is no less queenly because she modestly sits at the foot of the table.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE FLAW IN THE DIAMOND

When I go out with rod and line
To some fair sylvan nook
I love to watch the sunlight shine
Upon the twinkling brook,
I love to see in glade and glen
The birds dart in and out—
Moreover, every now and then
I'd like to catch a trout.

The trees afford a pleasant shade
The while I stroll along,
Their branches, by the breezes swayed
Sing quite a pleasant song.
My weary mind is often eased
By quiet summer skies,
But I would still be better pleased
If I could get a rise.

I know that there is peace and rest
In Nature's kindly arms,
Where worldly ills cannot molest
And ever prospect charms.
But one thing always mars my bliss,
And sours my delight,
The thing that troubles me, in this:
The gosh-darned fish won't bite.

It's fine to bask upon the shore
In noontide's golden glow
And hear the creaming riffles roar
Upon the rocks below.
While passing by on whirring wing
There flies a hurrying duck:
I'd like to fish like anything
If I had any luck.

All the Traffic Will Bear

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Several times we have pointed out that under the established price and profit system, goods must be distributed on the basis of price-bidding.

"That may be true," comes the objection, "but under such a system profit-seekers charge all that the traffic will bear."

Yes, as a rule. This however, is merely saying again that they charge whatever consumers, competing for the same goods, allow them to charge. And there is no other way of determining who is to get the goods.

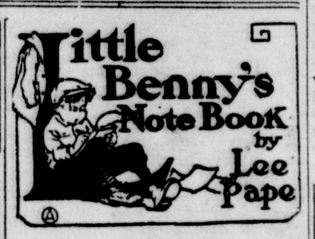

But if this is what we mean by profiteering, who shall cast the first stone? Society is based on the expectation that every individual member will obtain whatever he can for whatever he has to sell. And he rarely disappoints us. Farmer, grocer, meat-packer, all our fellow workers in every career known to the census, including those who are loudest in their condemnation of "profiteers," usually accept for the commodities they wish to sell as much as they can get. When any one declines to do so, his conduct is so exceptional that it figures in the headlines.

But until we find a workable substitute for the profit incentive, it is not clear why we should condemn any one profit-seeker, merely for doing what society, as a going concern, requires that virtually everybody must do.

This is not the whole story, of course. What about people who have services to sell? What about plumbers, lawyers, barbers, teachers, and movie stars? Do they, also, charge "all that the traffic will bear"? That question we shall discuss tomorrow.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

A MACHINE AGE IDYLL

There is an embryo poetry in the machine age that goes quite beyond Pennell etchings of the brute beauty of massive masonry and swinging shovels.

Five years ago Henri de Man conducted an extensive and enlightening inquiry into the mind of the modern workman of the machine age in Germany, and the mass of replies that came from German workmen in answer to M. De Man's questions makes fascinating reading. The readers of this conlumn who know German will find these replies in full in a German volume under the title of "Der Kampf um die Arbeitsfreude." The English edition of this book, under the title of "Joy in Work," omits most of this first hand material.

A compositor, listed as Case 67, speaks of his relation to the machine of the press room as follows:

"As we contemplate our machines, we have sensations varying in accordance with the nature of the machine....

"A typesetting machine, of one kind or another, with its delicate and complicated mechanism, assumes the aspect of an extraordinary skilled man, not to say magician, who, by the adroitest of manipulations, conjures something up out of the air.

"One tries to enter into personal relations with such a machine, to fulfill its wishes, to perform all the preliminaries correctly, and in this way to charm it into maximum production. One might almost be said to flatter and to caress it, for it has its moods. One rejoices in the products of machine production, knowing that, without the machine, one could not have turned them out; and yet one is aware, all the time, that the machine must accommodate itself to the human will. A printer has the same sort of relationship with the other machines, though of a different kind.

"The oscillating power-driven press, with its to-and-fro movement, does not seem to him so intellectually gifted. He looks upon it rather as an unskilled laborer, as one who mechanically and rhythmically performs any hodman's work entrusted to him. If one has to stop the press for a moment, and to lean forward within reach of its mechanism, one does so with a certain dread of its caprices, with a half-acknowledged fear that some hazard might set the motor at work.

"Altogether different, again, is the feeling toward a rotary press. That seems more like a fettered titan, angrily performing its task, and gobbling up the paper off the rollers....In my 'prentice days, I was often filled with aesthetic delight when I stood watching the work of one of these great rotary presses.

"However much one's attitude toward the deffirent kinds of machine may vary, in all cases alike, we look upon it as a living creature, and want to be on friendly terms with it, were it only in order to master it. There is no sense of hostility toward the machine. Work at it needs so much mental energy, that the sense of one's own work being mechanized passes into the background. Only the subsequent elaboration of the machine product is mechanized and intellectually depreciated."

Some day, when we have mastered the machine more fully and when the machine has emancipated mankind from drudgery, the dawning poetry of this compositor's relationship to the machines of the press room will become one of the living realities of the working world.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CRITICAL YOUTH

"Did you see how she walked into the room? Wasn't it too funny. She must have thought she was the Queen of Sheba."

"M-m. But did you see that old man trying to be funny? He gets my goat. You'd think he had a license to crack jokes and was afraid he'd lose it if he didn't make one a minute."

"Yeh. Did you ever seen a woman dressed like Mrs. Kitchy before? Wouldn't you think somebody'd have told her she was going on fifty."

"She isn't half as bad as daughter. Gee. If I had such a voice I'd give it a rest."

"Did you catch on to Susie's little trick? Gets faint and I have to drive her home. I gave her some drive all right. I bet I did a sixty-five on the turnpike. Makes you tired."

"Yeh. The whole bunch give me a pain."

What the youngsters do not know is that somebdy else is doing the very same kindness for them. Another group of youngsters and a sprinkling of elders is busily picking the feathers off the backs of the absent ones. And just what good does it do?

But it does a lot of harm. It is very, very easy to find objectionable traits in those about us. It is the easiest thing we do and because we are lazy and always a little grudging, we enjoy this questionable pastime.

It is not possible to indulge in grudging thought without paying a severe price for it. Every grudging thought robs us of a bit of joy. Every bit of joy we lose is replaced by a clog of grossness and the weighted spirit droops. In sheer self defense we ought to cast out the spirit of carping criticism, of grudging, of envy. The price is too high, too bitter.

The spirit that harbored grudging thoughts soon reflects itself on the body. Its processes slow down. Its powers are uncertain and curtailed. The skin becomes cloudy and the eyes look darkly. The feet that stepped so lightly drag heavy weights behind them. A burdened spirit is a heavy load.

In other days a weary, irritable, disinterested child was given a dose of castor oil or calomel on the basis that what he needed was a thorough cleansing of the body. Today we know that this is true but with the added idea that the cleansing must start with the thought of the child's mind.

Clean out every thought of envy and grudging. Wipe away every remembrance of wrong or injury and start each day afresh. Forget the ills of the day before and dwell on the good in people and things until the spirit within sings in joy at its liberation. Speak well of the absent. Think well of everybody. Above all, think lovingly. So will you establish harmony in your own soul and increase your power for good. This is the lesson for critical youth and carping age.
